Former New York Theatrical Producer Appears in Person To Ask for Liberty.

SESSION'S RESULT HELD IN SECRECY

Appearance of Prisoner, Ruddy With Health, Presents Contrast to Former Emaciation.

Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, went before the federal parole board late Friday to appear personally in behalf of his application for parole from the Atlanta penitentiary, where he is serving a year and a day term for perjury.

The board, meeting in special session to consider the petitions of more than 125 prisoners who have become eligible for clemency during the past month, held its meeting in the afternoon at the prison honor farm, where Carroll for some time has fulfilled the duties of librarian, and summoned him for a personal hearing.

Only at the board's discretion are applicants accorded such a hearing, and Carroll was one of a few inmates who have been called thus far in the two days of the board's meeting.

What he told the board and what questions he was asked, however, were kept in strict secrecy, which always veils such proceedings.

Any recommendations the parole board makes must first be referred to Washington for the attorney general's approval before the outcome of any of the applications is made public.

The theatrical producer's appearance Friday was in sharp contrast to that he presented when he entered the penitentiary on a hospital stretcher on June 8. Then he was worn and emaciated from the long nervous strain under which he had labored for several weeks preceding his imprisonment. Friday, he was ruddy and smiling, his face registering a hopeful mien.

He became eligible for parole on October 8, when one-third of his sentence was completed.

Mrs. Marvin Williams Re-elected President at State Convention Held in Savannah.

Savannah, Ga., October 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Marvin Williams, of Atlanta, was unanimously re-elected president of the Georgia Women's Christian Temperance Union in the balloting that took place throughout the meeting of this morning's session at Wesley Memorial Methodist church. All other state officers were re-elected with the exception of Mrs. J. L. McGarity, assistant recording secretary. There is a contest for this office, which will be run off later.

Those elected with Mrs. Williams were: Mrs. Dudley Smith, Eastman, vice president; Mrs. W. G. Cotton, Columbus, corresponding secretary; Miss Josephine Hammond, Monroe, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Harris Armour, Tate, and Mrs. Florence Ewell Atkins, Milledgeville, lecturers; Miss Mary Fanny Harris, Hogsenville, and Mrs. Robert H. McDougall, Atlanta, branch secretaries of the young people's branch and the Loyal Temperance Legion, respectively. Officers, August Burghard, Macon, Georgia Bulletin, and Mrs. W. H. Preston, Atlanta.

VICTIMS ON WAY TO BARN DANCE

Men and Women Are Members of Sahara Grotto; Crash Occurs on Indianapolis Outskirts.

Indianapolis, October 14.—(AP)—Fourteen persons were known to have been killed and 24 injured, five probably fatally when a Union Traction company interurban car struck an automobile trailer at Emerson avenue and the Honeybee line on the outskirts of Indianapolis tonight.

All of the dead and injured except the motorman and conductor of the interurban were members of the Sahara Grotto grill team of Indianapolis and relatives and friends of the Grotto members.

Nine of the dead were identified late tonight. Five were missing in addition to the 14 known dead. Police said they believed the five men were dead.

The party, numbering 65 persons, was in a truck and a trailer, bound for a barn dance.

List of Dead, all of Indianapolis, follows:

Mr. Roland P. Rhodes.
Lee Merriam.
Miss Ethel Merriam.
Earl Wolford.
William M. Hodges.
Charles P. Polesel.
A. Mr. Parker.
John G. Watson.
Van Welber Glasscock.
Mrs. Opal Merriam, wife of Lee Merriam.
Frank Meredith.
Charles T. Wheeler.
Carl Jones.
Mrs. Robert W. Dalls.
Those probably fatally injured were Mrs. Mary Berling, C. L. Kepner, Margaret Pauley, Mrs. Pearl Wheeler and R. W. Dallas, all of Indianapolis. Did Not Hear Car.

Harry Stewart, of Indianapolis, who was driving the truck to which the trailer was attached, said he did not hear or see the interurban car. The first he knew of the accident was when his machine leaped forward after the interurban had crashed into the trailer.

The trailer was reduced to kindling but the motor truck was untouched. Stewart was taken to police headquarters for questioning.

Hal Titus, conductor of the interurban car, was knocked unconscious for a few minutes following the crash. W. W. Merrill, the motorman suffered a broken leg. He told police he sounded his whistle repeatedly.

Five Bodies Removed.
Five bodies and a woman suffering serious injuries were removed from the vestibule of the interurban after it had been stopped nearly a half-mile away from the scene of the collision. The vestibule was wrecked. Bodies of the others were strewn about over a radius of 100 yards.

Only five persons were on the interurban car and none was injured. The car was en route to Indianapolis from Muncie.

The Grotto is a fun organization, membership of which is open only to Masons. Many influential residents of the city are members of the Grotto.

Girl Gives Up Job But Finds Witness Who May Save Brother.

New York, October 14.—(AP)—A sister who, to save her younger brother from the electric chair, gave up her job and turned detective, offered in court today the evidence she had gathered to help the brother obtain a new trial.

The girl is Theresa Weiner. Her brother, who she described as "the baby of the family," is Robert Weiner, sentenced to die in Sing Sing for the murder of Warden Peter Mallon, of Tombs prison. Mallon and a guard were killed during an attempted jail break last November. Weiner was convicted of having furnished a pistol to one of the four prisoners who attempted to escape.

Weiner denied having supplied the pistol, and while he admitted having been in the vicinity of the prison, he contended that he had driven away from there a half hour before the shooting occurred, and that his car had bumped a taxicab. His sister said that she spent weeks scouring New York for the chauffeur of that taxicab, interviewing hundreds of them until finally she found Albert Giller, who this week testified that he was the man sought.

She said she had not realized the gravity of her brother's plight until he had been sentenced. Then she took her savings to employ a lawyer and gave up her job to devote her time to gathering evidence to save Robert from death.

Washington, October 14.—(United News).—The average advance of farm prices between August and September was the greatest in 18 years, the department of agriculture reports.

The average price of agricultural produce was higher, September than ever before. The index was reached September 15 when prices advanced 140 per cent over the pre-war average, which was 8 points higher than on August 15 and 6 points higher than in September, 1926.

The unusual rise this year is due to advances in cotton, hogs, cattle, but

SCHOOL PROJECTS UP TO COUNCIL

Bond Commission Passes Plans Calling for Expenditure of $1,500,000; Deadlock Broken.

City council will be asked to approve school projects totaling more than $1,500,000 at the session Monday, following action at meetings of the bond commission and the school committee of city council Friday.

A deadlock between the board of education and the bond commission was broken at a meeting of the board of education Thursday when owners of a tract of land selected as the site on which the Haygood and state schools would be consolidated was reduced from $65,000 to $42,050.

Preliminary approval was given that project and a long list of others Thursday morning when the school contact committee of the Atlanta bond commission, headed by William L. Hancock, gave unanimous sanction to all the projects and passed them to a meeting of the bond commission later in the day.

In addition to an item of about $200,000 for the Haygood-State school merger including purchase of land and approximately $150,000 for the new building other projects which will be passed to council include:

Forrest Avenue, $50,000; Highland Avenue, $50,000; Whiteford Avenue, $90,000; Home Park, $40,000; Adair, $40,000; Georgia Avenue, $54,000; Goldsmith, $41,000; Grant Park, $135,000; Southeast Grant Park, $26,000; Kirkwood, $42,250; Moreland Avenue, $70,000; Oakland City, $12,000; Peoples Street, $70,000; Davis Howard, $150,000; Slaton, $95,000; Samuel M. Attorney General Intimates They Will Face Indictments as Result of 20 Flogging Cases.

Luverne, Ala., October 14.—(AP)—Questioning of James Esdale, grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Alabama, and seizure of records of the Luverne klavern of the Klan, featured today's session of the special grand jury investigating masked violence in Crenshaw county.

The state Klan chief was closeted with the grand jury for an hour and 20 minutes. He refused to indicate the nature of the questioning, or in what connection he had been called before the investigating body.

Summoned to appear Wednesday, Esdale received no word that his presence was desired here until yesterday when he returned from a trip outside the state. He immediately acceded to the request of Attorney General Charlie C. McCall that he appear today.

State officers this afternoon raided the home and office of Ira B. Thompson, reputed cyclops of the Luverne klavern of the Klan, and seized all Klan records and paraphernalia found there. The articles were taken to the hotel room of Attorney General McCall.

The seizure was made apparently because of the refusal of alleged members of the Klan to testify regarding membership in the organization.

Notable among these latter was Cecil Davis, of Birmingham, said to be a former grand titan of the southern province of the Ku Klux Klan, who was given a five-day prison sentence by Judge A. E. Gamble, for contempt of court following his refusal to answer questions put to him by the grand jury.

Attorney General McCall said today that no report would be made by the grand jury until tomorrow night at the earliest. He has indicated that the grand jury will return indictments against more than 100 persons for the alleged flogging of 20 or more persons in Crenshaw county during the last two years.

ASA CANDLER, JR., QUIETLY MARRIED

Miss Florence A. Stephenson Bride of Financier, as Bishop Candler Officiates.

Nation-wide interest centers on the marriage here Friday of Asa Grier Candler, Jr., second son of the Coca-Cola company founder, to Miss Florence Adeline Stephenson, of Lithonia, Ga., for nine years his secretary, at the residence of the bridegroom's uncle, Bishop Warren A. Candler, on Ponce de Leon avenue.

The ceremony, performed by Bishop Candler, was simple, the only attendants being the bishop's wife, the bride's father, William Jefferson Stephenson, and the bride's sister, Mrs. A. B. Roberts, of Lithonia.

Immediately following the marriage, at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Candler left aboard the Crescent Limited for an extended honeymoon with Hawaii as their ultimate destination, according to members of the bride's family. They will go to San Francisco by way of New Orleans, while further plans were not divulged.

On their departure from the Terminal station at 6 o'clock Friday afternoon, Mrs. Candler wore a smartly tailored traveling costume set off by a bridal bouquet of orchids. Mr. Candler smilingly greeted newspaper men, although she was loath to discuss his plans for the future.

The bride is a handsome and charming woman whose engaging personality had won admiration and respect, and whose business ability was reflected in her secretarial position of responsibility.

Mrs. Candler, a native of Lithonia, is well known here through her long association with the business and social life of the city.

Mr. Candler is a financier and capitalist of note, and has always shown interest in movements for the advancement of Atlanta.

Mrs. Grayson Laughs at Criticism of Flights by Women Appearing in Irish Paper.

Washington, October 14.—(United News).—Mrs. Frances W. Grayson will encounter favorable winds and weather for the first leg of her flight from Old Orchard, Maine, to Copenhagen, if she takes off Saturday, as expected, the United States weather bureau said tonight.

Winds will be moderate to fresh from the west at Old Orchard with fair weather extending to Newfoundland.

Southwest of Newfoundland an area of high pressure, with possible adverse winds, has been reported, and east of these indications are for "rather bad conditions," forecasters said. They pointed out, however, that ocean flight reports were no longer received and that to forecast accurately conditions further at sea would be impossible.

Winds From Northeast.

A report from a ship today at latitude 46, longitude 46, was that winds were from the northeast, or unfavorable to a transoceanic flight.

Indications point to considerable cloudiness, showers and poor visibility east of Newfoundland, it was said.

Weather forecasters pointed out there is always some unfavorable weather over the ocean at this time of the year, and that a plane might encounter sleet at high altitudes.

They said that weather conditions usually change every two days at sea in the fall, and that even with complete reports it would be practically impossible to forecast conditions accurately.

Ernest Amos, State Comptroller, and Three Others Are Held in Bank Failure Probe.

Sanford, Fla., October 14.—(AP)—Ernest Amos, state comptroller; F. F. Dutton, prominent celery grower; Forrest Lake, president of the defunct Seminole County bank, and A. R. Key, cashier of the institution, have been indicted by a special grand jury investigating the closing of the bank on August 6.

Comptroller Amos was charged with malpractice in office. Of the 25 other counts returned, 15 were against Dutton and the others against Lake and Key.

Dutton was charged with issuing worthless drafts totalling $18,240.77. A capias had been issued for his arrest but had not been served tonight.

Excessive Loans Charged.

Eight of the counts against Lake and Key charge them jointly with making excessive loans and embezzlement.

The charges against the pair make a total of 19 indictments returned against them. Key faces three pretexts alone and Lake four, with the others naming the two jointly.

First Minister to Czechoslovakia Shot to Death by 18-Year-Old Berlin Student.

Prague, Oct. 14.—(United News).—Three days after Ceno Beg, Albania's first minister to Czechoslovakia, arrived in Prague he was assassinated by an 18-year-old Berlin student who regarded him as a traitor.

Under arrest for the assassination tonight, Aligiwath Bebi, the student, expressed no regret for the act which stunned the volatile Balkan states.

He said he came to Prague Wednesday for the express purpose of killing the minister.

Ceno Beg was shot twice as he sat dining in a cafe. Occurring at 10 p. m., when the cafes are well filled with late diners, the shooting caused a near panic. Police arrived quickly and took charge of the situation.

The minister died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital.

Ceno Beg was the son of Riza Beg, a rich Albanian landholder and merchant who lived in the Kosovo region.

After the war he served in the Serbian army as a major, leaving later to lead a small army against Fan Noli, then premier of Albania.

This coup placed Zog in power and Ceno Beg, relative of the new premier, was appointed Albanian minister to Jugo-Slavia. When Albania and Jugo-Slavia severed diplomatic relations following the treaty of Tirana, Ceno Beg was recalled. Later he lived un molested under the name of J. R. Forrester for seven years.

Paris Hop Was 'News' To Ruth's Atlanta Kin

AVIATRIX SILENT ON PLANS WHEN HERE LAST JULY

The trans-Atlantic flying ambitions of Ruth Elder were not revealed to her Atlanta relatives until they saw an announcement of the proposed New York-Paris hop of "The American Girl" in the newspaper, J. H. Elder, of East Lake, and J. T. Elder, Jr., of 1058 North Highland avenue, N. E., cousins of the aviatrix, said Friday.

Ruth Elder visited Atlanta three months ago on her way to New York to close a "contract," but she did not inform her Atlanta relatives just what the contract involved, nor did they ask her, J. T. Elder, Jr., said. "Ruth is a mighty fine girl and well liked by her Atlanta relatives," he said.

"The first we knew of her Paris flight intentions was when we read it in the papers," he said. "She kept it a dark secret until she was ready to announce it through the papers. Ruth has visited us often, both at my home and at the home of my father, J. T. Elder, Sr., who is her uncle."

Congratulations upon the safety of Ruth were written to her parents Friday by Atlanta relatives. J. T. Elder, Jr., said that as soon as her mail-forwarding address is known, local members of the Elder family will wire Ruth their best wishes and congratulations upon her rescue.

The history of the Elder family was related Friday by J. H. Elder, of Morgan street, who relates the story that John Elder, Ruth's ancestor, was sold into slavery.

"Three brothers by the name of Elder found themselves orphans in London in 1655, and after discussing their situation and their discouraging future prospects in England, determined to go to the colonies in America," Mr. Elder said. "Having a friend and a neighbor who was a ship captain, trading between London and the colonies, they applied to him for advice and aid, informing that they had so many pounds of sterling for their fare, but were short one fare. The captain agreed to take them over."

The merchant employed the youngest of the trio, John, who was 16 years old. On the next trip over, John Elder met the captain and paid his fare, and from this the story of John Elder's being sold into slavery originated. John afterward married the merchant's daughter, in 1664.

Betrayed for $50 Reward,
Man Paroled After 4 Years

PROSPECTIVE SON-IN-LAW "TURNED UP" TIFT MAN

J. B. Hall, one-time prominent citizen of Tift county, soon will discard the stripes of prison garb and renew his faith in humanity, which was jolted in 1923 when his prospective son-in-law turned him over to prison authorities to collect a $50 reward.

Hall has been paroled by Governor Hardman.

Prison commission officers Friday said Hall's daughter never married the lover who reported her father, an escaped convict, to prison authorities following his escape from the Dodge county chain gang in 1916. Hall was convicted January 24, 1914, in Tift county of murdering Dennis Hall, a relative, and sentenced to death. His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and on May 1, 1919, he escaped from the Dodge county penitentiary and fled to Florida where he lived unmolested under the name of J. R. Forrester for seven years.

His daughter fell in love with a neighbor's son and the pair were soon to be wed. Hall's conscience bothered him and he told the prospective son-in-law of his prison record. The youth reported the case to prison officials to collect a $50 reward, prison commission officials said, and Hall was arrested and returned to the prison farm in Baldwin county. The youth, commission officials said, was spurned by Hall's daughter, who has since wed another man.

Hall, an expert concrete worker and bridge builder, has made an excellent record in prison, Governor Hardman said, and numerous petitions for his release have been filed since his conviction, escape and recapture. The commissioners of Baldwin county have assured Governor Hardman that a position is waiting for Hall when his parole becomes effective in a few days. The prison commission recommended clemency several months ago and the governor in acting upon the recommendation said he was convinced that on account of new evidence, "I believe this was a case of manslaughter, and in self defense."

Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Le Brix Land at Natal After Flight of 2,000 Miles.

FAST TIME MADE ACROSS ATLANTIC

Plane Made Distance From Paris to St. Louis, Senegal, 2,672 Miles, in 26 Hours.

Pernambuco, Brazil, October 14.—(AP)—Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Le Brix, who hopped from St. Louis, Senegal, this morning, landed at Port Natal at 11:40 o'clock tonight, local time.

Costes brought his plane, the "Nungesser-Coli," down in a beautiful landing on the field prepared for him 12 miles from the city, amid the wild cheers of a great crowd. He and his companion were formally greeted by the governor of the state and high civil and military authorities.

His navigation across the expanse of the south Atlantic was accurate, and he apparently disregarded the Island of Fernando de Noronha, flying direct to Port Natal. The radio equipment on the plane proved a valuable help.

FLIGHT TO SENEGAL GAVE ACES CONFIDENCE.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Dieudonne Costes and Lieutenant Joseph Le Brix hopped off from Le Bourget, France's historic air field, Monday morning in their Breguet military biplane christened the "Nungesser-Coli." The announced purpose of their flight was to show the practicability of air communication between France and South America.

The first leg of their flight to Saint Louis, Senegal, where they landed Tuesday morning, was the longest, 2,700 miles. The successful performance of their plane during this gruelling flight gave the fliers an added confidence that their venture would be successful.

Torrential rains which made the flying life soggy held them at St. Louis until this morning when they hopped off at 6:23 a. m. on the 2,000-mile journey to the coast of Brazil. They played a picture of Port Natal to Rio Janeiro and Buenos Aires.

Costes and Le Brix, by hopping from Senegal to Brazil, have accomplished a feat which has long challenged airmen—a nonstop flight across the south Atlantic. Their average speed was slightly under 100 miles an hour for the 2,000-mile trip.

Commander Francesco de Pinedo, of Italy; Ramon Franco, of Spain; Gago Coutinho and Arturo de Gama, of Portugal, and Major Sarmiento de Beires, also of Portugal, have flown the south Atlantic, but all were forced to land.

SPEED LAW BAN ON TENNESSEE'S HIGHWAYS SOUGHT

Memphis, Tenn., October 14.—(AP) Tennessee's 30-mile-an-hour speed limit will be revised and done away with so far as it applies to highways where fast driving is safe, it recommends.

tions which C. N. Bass, state highway commissioner, announced today he would submit to the 1928 legislature are adopted.

Mr. Bass told the Tennessee State Chamber of Commerce, in session here today, that he planned to go before the next session of the general assembly with a plan that would permit fast driving on good stretches of highways but limiting the speed on roadways where fast driving would not be safe.

The commissioner's announcement was made after Frank B. Quackenbush, of the Nashville Chamber of Commerce, told the state association that Tennessee's speed laws had given the state a "black eye" over the country.

"It's a law that nobody obeys unless he thinks an officer is behind him but one that encourages fee-grabbing and opens every possibility of graft," Mr. Quackenbush said.

"We ought to have a reasonable law," he declared. "There are places where it is criminal to go 30 miles an hour and others where it is perfectly safe to go 50."

METHODIST BOARD ACTION DEFENDED

Martin, Tenn., October 14.—(AP) Existence of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals was defended here today by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, corresponding secretary, who warned his critics that it would continue "forever on ward to support the greatest moral reform of the Christian centuries."

Addressing the annual Tennessee conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, north, Dr. Wilson expressed surprise at "the number of good people deceived by propaganda against the church having anything to do with civic matters and the claim that the board's presence in Washington is 'an invasion of the rights of other religions, if not a violation of the first amendment to the constitution.'"

"We may place it upon record now as well as at any time that the presence of our institution in Washington can be misapprehended and the justification of its existence depends entirely upon what it is trying to do," he said.

"I do not know one sincere and earnest Protestant, one loyal and self-sacrificing American patriot, one law-abiding citizen who is interested in prohibition and the promotion of public morals who has ever raised an objection to our existence or to our location in the nation's capital.

"The church is organized for the promotion of its religious principles and its moral ideals. It has the full right of petition, of free speech and of free press, the right to organize public influence for the accomplishment of its purposes. It has the same right to its convictions that its enemies have to theirs.

"While these forces are here at the nation's capital working for the demoralization of the American people and the overthrow of their constitutional government, we shall not hesitate to pursue our course forever onward to stand by the men who, having taken the oath to support, protect and defend the constitution of the United States, are sustaining the greatest moral reform of the Christian centuries, and do our utmost against those who seek to nullify the amendment they do not like but which we believe has more possibilities for human betterment than any other piece of legislation ever passed in the annals of our republic.

"Christianity must contend for the right; it is a life-long struggle with every false religion and with every immoral thing. These moral battles for world betterment are carried on under two arms—the church and the state."

Miss Jean Askew, of Newnan, who has been appointed state-sponsor for the coming reunion by General David B. Freeman, commander of the Georgia division of the United Confederate Veterans, will assist in the tag sale.

Mrs. A. O. Woodward, general chairman, will have charge of the tag sale and announced Friday night that plans had been completed and

Thinning Gray Ranks Need Aid On Railroad Fare to Reunion

Many of the fast-thinning ranks of the wearers of the gray are anxious to chum with their comrades of the Confederacy in Thomasville, Ga., on October 25 and 26.

It may be the last time some of them will greet a comrade in this vale of tears and tears—possibly the last stand of many a true southern gentleman.

Today, Atlanta will be called upon to contribute to the expenses of the more than 100 veterans in Fulton county who desire to go to the reunion. This morning on the downtown streets of the city, numerous women will sell to the citizens tags which will bear the portrait of the south's greatest general, Robert E. Lee. Proceeds from the sale of these tags will be distributed to the veterans by Atlanta camp No. 150, United Confederate Veterans, of which A. J. Shropshire is commander. This local camp is sponsoring the sale of the tags.

The action was taken by unanimous vote of the shipping board members, who elected themselves trustees of the fleet corporation. General A. C. O'Connor, former president of the corporation, will work under O'Connor as vice president and general manager.

Formerly the fleet corporation acted independently, but was responsible to the shipping board.

FRANCE TO OFFER TARIFF REDUCTION

Paris, October 14.—(AP) Le Matin says that the French answer to the latest American note on the tariff question will propose that the United States have the benefit during the negotiations of tariff rates which were in effect prior to 1921. The maximum applied to the United States would in many cases be less than the minimum now granted to Germany.

RADIO PENETRATES 500 FEET OF ROCK IN WESTERN MINE

Washington, October 14.—(AP) That radio waves will penetrate 500 feet or more of rock strata was indicated in tests by the bureau of mines at Caribou, Colo., it was announced today by the department of commerce.

At a depth of 220 feet, Dr. A. S. Even, of McGill University, Montreal, clearly heard a musical contest broadcast at Denver, 50 miles distant. Reception from Denver at 550 feet depth was "mushy," but disturbed conditions were believed responsible.

Dr. Even is conducting a study for the bureau of mines of the possibilities in various methods of geophysical prospecting for location of underground mineral deposits.

DEMOCRATS SHOULD PROFIT.

The alliance—engineered by Senator Borah—of the western radical group in the senate, known as the "insurgents," with other anti-administration republicans from that section, most of whom are on the border land of radicalism, does not mean a "third party," similar to that attempted by the late Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, and Senator Wheeler, democrat, of Montana, in 1924. That has been assured by Senator Borah.

It does mean an organized group for holding the balance of power in the senate.

It will draft a legislative program and will also assume a definite attitude as to presidential candidates in 1928.

Richard V. Oulahan, in the New York Times, says:

"The group's statement made clear that the conferences were to be confined to western republican senators with the object of impressing upon the eastern wing of the republican party that the party was national and not merely eastern. The west, it was stressed, had its own problems, and those of its senatorial representatives who are participating in the conferences hoped to obtain 'some unity of purpose and some solidarity of action.'"

Senator Borah has made it clear that the western group would seek higher rates of duty upon a dozen or more products of the farm.

It will be recalled that the tariff commission now has before it petitions for raising the duties on the products which the group has in mind. They include flax seed, milk and cream, peanuts, soy beans, cotton seed, onions, eggs, cherries, fresh tomatoes, canned tomatoes and corn.

Under the flexible provisions of the tariff law the president has authority, after investigation by the commission, to lower or raise the duties on these products 50 per cent.

It is regarded as assured that the Borah alliance will insist upon a western candidate, and the Idaho senator is quoted as saying, "Norris would be acceptable, and Hoover has not been barred."

There is little or no prospect of Norris being the nominee, and of course Senator Borah knows it. His words may be considered merely a gesture, pending further definite plans.

Perhaps Borah! Of course Senator Borah, who is able, and a watchful politician, could not afford to drop this suggestion during the formative period of organized offense.

Whatever may be the "explanations" released by the engineer of the alliance, the movement is purely political. It is purely "insurgent." It is organized opposition to the eastern wing of the party with the whip in the senate due to the close majority of only two republican votes, counting all the noses on the republican side.

That it has stirred up a hornet's nest in the organized party circles in the east is very obvious.

The democratic party has a splendid opportunity to capitalize and to profit by this situation if it would show some degree of harmony in its ranks, and not a continuation of petty bickering that is eating worm holes from within.

ATLANTA'S 1927 BABIES.

After more than two years of lapse, in so far as federal registration, the state bureau of vital statistics is again functioning in perfect order, and henceforth the whole nation may know Georgia's health condition, birth rate, death rate by ages, etc.

Georgia is one of the healthiest states in the union. Her child death rate is lower than in most states. Her birth rate is high. Her life longevity is above that of most states.

These facts are of great importance to the home-seeker who has his eyes turned toward the south. It is of wide interest, therefore, that the federal department of vital statistics is again placing Georgia statistics among the accredited states.

In this connection it is worthy of note that Atlanta's health department this month will conduct a campaign to obtain accurate information as to the number of children born in the city in 1927. Dr. Kennedy will send return post cards to every user of water in the city, the same to go out with the water bills, the water department thus co-operating with the health department. The receiver of the card is expected to fill the same in—that is, whether or not a child has been born, if so when, and whether male or female, white or colored.

The law requires this. It requires the registration of the birth of every child with the health department. Such registration is essential in saving the child in the future—perhaps in maturity—serious trouble and expense in proving identity, age, citizenship, legal rights, etc.

Similar campaigns conducted in conjunction with the state bureau of vital statistics are being conducted this month all over Georgia.

LET THEM PROVE INNOCENCE.

If a well-known hooded order, or an organization, is not officially involved in the terrorism that has been conducted by masked night riders in various sections of the southeast in the past few months, then the grand "titian"—whatever that may mean—should step up like a man and tell the truth under oath, whether it implicated members of his order or not.

The law is supreme, and its demand is paramount to that of any private oath, whether made to a fraternity, or what not.

Failure to respond to the law in such a situation is tantamount to an admission that the truth would involve and incriminate members of his order and that his official hands had criminal knowledge if not direction of the hooded operations.

And if the "locals" are not officially involved in these outrages then the grand dragon of Alabama—who is the state head—might in turn find it advisable to deliver to the sheriff of Crenshaw county the Rev. N. A. Nalls, said to be an exalted cyclops—which is the local head—who is also among the missing. He has been indicted for mercilessly flogging a young woman.

Attorney General McCall says he will get 100 indictments and 100 convictions on felony charges in Crenshaw county. If so he will deserve the plaudits of every decent man and woman in America, and the backbone of the greatest menace in the south today will have been broken.

Balls and chains and rock piles may not look good to these marauders of the night, who hide their faces and ride through the hours of darkness to terrorize communities, inflict bodily punishment and otherwise defy law and order and abash civilization; but, fastened upon the offenders, they will look mighty good to the overwhelming majority of loyal and orderly citizens who believe in the stability of government and in the integrity of the law.

Bolshevism in the northwest and anarchism in the alien quarters of the industrial centers are not so threatening to the institutions of government and to the constitutional guarantees of protection to the people as white-robed night-riding in the south.

It must be eradicated, if it takes the bayonets of state troopers to do it.

Attorney General McCall is going about the task with the will and the courage to show defiers of law that law is yet supreme.

The test of true Americanism is loyalty to the constitution and to the laws of the land.

One who defies, with the lash or otherwise, is just as much un-American as the alien who wreaks his vengeance with a bomb.

The penitentiary or the chair, as the law may warrant, are justifiably waiting in all such crimes against constituted authority.

A Delaware woman who took poison to end her misery was subjected to an X-ray, and the plate revealed some two-score of hairpins, hair curlers, buttons, spoons and other notions in her stomach. She will be operated upon when she recovers from the effects of the poison. This is the first record of a hospital opening a 5 and 10-cent store.

There are so many pleasant things happening in Atlanta that eastern and central time have been shelved for jazz time.

Another woman has swum the English channel—two in one week. If they don't stop this they will wear the channel out.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Street Name Changes.

The municipal councils of the towns of France have for some time had the habit of naming new streets after famous citizens of the past; and as every town in France has a history the custom is not a bad way of recalling it, especially when the dates of the birth and death of the great men are added on the tablet, as is done in some cases. The inclusion of recently-departed mayors, whose claims to commemoration are not obvious, may be a pardonable exaggeration. The thing becomes tedious when picturesque old names of streets, which have long existed, are removed to pay compliments to Clemenceau or Foch or President Wilson, or even King George V, each of whom must now have hundreds of streets named after him in France.

Clichy Communists.

When, however, the naming of streets becomes an instrument of political and religious controversy it is frankly detestable. There are communist municipalities which are determined each to have a street named after Lenin, and the communists of the suburb of Clichy, having wisely resolved not to interfere with the American Legion's procession in the center of Paris, spent the day changing the name of their Place des Fêtes into Place Sacco-Vanzetti. There are radical councils whose severe atheism is offended by any street whose name has a religious sound. Thus, at Arles, the rue du Saint-Esprit has now become the rue Voltaire, and Ernest Renan, in many towns and villages, blotted out the names of ecclesiastics and holy men, for whom he had, in fact, the greatest respect. The worst of it is that if the next elections bring a reversal of parties in the town councils we shall have to change our postal addresses once more.

Free Wine.

Lugo is a famous center of viticulture, and on the occasion of the national congress and the exhibition of fruiticulture held at the neighboring town of Massalombarda the citizens of Lugo organized a "wine carnival." In a speech a member of parliament said that Italy now produces ten million hectolitres less than in pre-war times. It is satisfactory to note that, although surrounded by wine, the Italians are a remarkably sober people. In fact, the average consumption of wine per capita is 95 litres a year, against the Frenchman's 130. During the afternoon the propaganda in favor of wine assumed a practical form; wine was offered free to anyone who cared to drink it, in whatever quantities. The news spread and parties flocked in from the neighboring towns, on gaily adorned carts and traps, singing to the accompaniment of guitars and mandolines. And so the rich red wine of Lugo flowed unintermittently all through the afternoon and till late at night, without any money changing hands, and although the greatest gaucherie prevailed there were few if any real "drunks." PERMANENT RADIO BODY AUTHORIZED

Washington, October 14.—(AP)—Over the opposition of the United States, Canada and most of the dissenting countries the technical committee of the international radio conference voted today in favor of establishing a permanent international radio committee.

Sponsors of the proposal suggested that the committee should be a purely consultative body to which would be referred questions and interpretations of radio terms could be referred for opinion. Major General Charles M. Seltzman, chief of the army signal corps and American delegate, told the committee that he believed such a body might interfere with the free development of radio science.

A proposal to merge the radio and telegraph conventions again was made to the committee, but it was rejected. The matter for future consideration.

More than 300 of the delegates and experts to the conference arranged to go to New York tonight as guests of the Radio Corporation of America and the National Broadcasting company. They will visit Riverhead and the Goldsboro Long Island radio stations, tomorrow morning and will attend a banquet in the evening. Major General James G. Harbord and David Sarnoff, president and general manager, respectively, of the radio corporation, and Senator William Marconi, inventor of wireless, will speak.

SHANSI ARMIES LOSE IN BATTLE

Pekin, China, October 14.—(AP)—The main Shansi armies which have been driving on Pekin have been crushed, but scattered bands still are in the field—some within 20 miles of Pekin—with northern forces close at their heels, a spokesman for the northern alliance stated today.

This spokesman declared that the northerners deliberately drew the main Shansi army of 80,000 men south to Pao-fing, 82 miles south-west of Pekin, and then sent the northern army by way of Anchow toward Tsin-chow to cut off their retreat.

The Shansi force was forced to abandon the Pekin-Hankow railway and flee southwestward toward their native province of Shansi.

The latest message from Chang Kueh-liang, son of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, stated that his troops are about to enter Cheng-feng-fu, 70 miles south of Pao-fing-fu, but, contrary to previous reports, the Shansi forces still hold the important railway junction of Chen-feng near Cheng-feng-fu. The northern spokesman said the fall of this latter place was expected hourly.

RED CROSS HELPS 900,000 PERSONS

Decatur, Ill., October 14.—(AP)—The American Red Cross, during the past 12 months, has been called upon to render aid in 77 domestic disasters, assisting 687,639 persons, while outside the United States during the same period the organization has assisted 217,478 persons, William M. Baxter, Jr., St. Louis, vice chairman of the American Red Cross, declared in an address here today before a state meeting of that organization.

Mr. Baxter said that there had been raised in the two major disasters in this country during the past 12 months—the Florida hurricane and the Mississippi valley flood—a sum in excess of $21,000,000. This did not include the approximately $1,000,000 raised for victims of the recent St. Louis tornado.

In fields other than that of disaster, Mr. Baxter said, "the Red Cross has been equally active and, contrary to the opinion that sometimes prevails, has been neither staid nor losing ground."

"Our experience during the past two years has developed the fact that hardships may occur, in fact, have occurred, in every month of the year and that practically no section of the country is immune. It, therefore, behooves every chapter of the American Red Cross to be prepared to meet emergencies of this character."

BOMB STARTLES DOG RACE FANS

Kansas City, October 14.—(AP)—Dog racing at the Parkville greyhound track, several miles from Kansas City, was briefly interrupted tonight when a bomb was thrown into the racing enclosure, causing consternation among 5,000 spectators. No one was injured.

The bomb was believed to have been thrown from a passing automobile. A highway skirts the edge of the track and the automobile was seen to drive near the enclosure and the bomb hurled into the back stretch.

The blast, occurring immediately after the first race of the evening, rocked the grandstands and tore a hole 12 feet wide in the ground. Racing was resumed with a heavy guard around the track.

Managers of the track said 15 guards were on duty before the races started tonight.

Bad feeling has been evident recently between hangers-on of the Parkville track and another nearby where dog racing started several weeks before the Parkville track opened, according to police.

just in Passing

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.

When cold weather begins to pinch in the northwest thousands of home-seekers turn their eyes to the south.

Beginning about the 15th of September and continuing until the spring sunshine begins to thaw out the snow-covered fields and commons in that icy country, The Constitution gets daily inquiries about Georgia climate, roads, schools, churches, farm lands, taxes, markets and so on and so on.

One such inquiry is before me today from far-away Butte, Mont. The writer has heard we have different kinds of normal climatic conditions in Georgia and soil conditions in these different zones. He wants to know all about it.

Below is what I have just written him. Is it all right?

"In north Georgia the winters are cold but never severe; the summers are warm but never hot; the principal crops are wheat, corn, oats, rye and barley, Irish and sweet potatoes, alfalfa and clover, cotton, peaches, apples, strawberries; it is admirably adapted to live stock growing. This part of the state is surprisingly beautiful because of picturesque mountains and valleys, peaches and apples are extensively grown for commerce.

"In middle Georgia the soil, climate and annual average temperature are all ideal. Few crops can be named that will not grow profitably in this section. It is a pasture land, therefore the center of the live stock industry. This is the center also of the Georgia peach and the Georgia yarn and the Georgia watermelon. It abounds in large and small streams.

"South Georgia is the section of Georgia where 'December is as May.' In this section one may work field in his shirt sleeves practically every month in the year. Tobacco is one of the leading money crops, though live stock and truck growing is rapidly advancing.

"Cotton, of course, is grown in all sections of Georgia, except north of the mountains.

"Southwest Georgia is the 'pecan belt.' The weather, all the year, is as ideal as in south Georgia. Every crop known to agriculture can be and is being grown profitably.

I did not mention about paved highways. I am glad he passed up that question.

Publication is given to this answer merely because Georgians ought to know Georgia better.

Miss Ruth Elder's miraculous escape from the storm-tossed waters of the French coast necessarily focuses the eyes of two continents upon her.

She is a brave little lady and the "American Girl" would have swum down on the landing field at Paris had it not been for the terrific hurricane she encountered Wednesday night and Thursday.

At this season of the year it is always stormy off the French coast. I have been in it in September and October several times, coming out of or going into Brest or Bordeaux, and I have never escaped a storm yet.

That she weathered such a storm through the long black hours of Wednesday night and that she and George Haldeman kept their plane going, in the very teeth of death, with lubrication cut off, until a rescue ship was sighted, is a mystery that few can understand.

I believe in prayer, and I am convinced that the prayers of that good old mother in Alabama, whose unceasing petitions kept pounding the throne in heaven from the hour of the hop-off until the "flash" that told of the rescue, had a great deal to do with it.

In the meantime it is hoped no other person will undertake such a perilous air voyage until the sunshine of spring calms the troubled waters of the fall and winter months.

It is gratifying that Miss Elder will be landed at the Azores and from there proceed to Paris anyway. Her trunk is there, and she needs a change of clothing.

Besides, she tried so hard and so courageously to get there, she deserves to go—and to see all the sights.

And then she ought to let the Parisians see what an intrepid little American aviatrix looks like.

The other day The Constitution called attention to a report of the United States forestry bureau, in which the statement was made that forest fires were more prevalent and destructive in the southeastern states than in any other section of the country.

It urged hearty support of the Georgia forestry department, and the Georgia forestry association, in their combined efforts to prevent forest fires, and stressed the importance of encouraging the state's forestry policy as to reforestation and general timber protection.

In an exhaustive signed article by W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph, the folly of "burning woods" was stressed, as was the economic importance and profit in growing trees.

His article was clear-cut, to the point, forceful—and should be read by every man in Georgia.

I have been called a crank on the forestry subject, and of course I devoured it with more than a kindly interest. Among other things Mr. Anderson said:

"If people could be made to realize what trees mean to them in wealth, in reclamation of abandoned farm lands, in the funds of the county treasuries, in reinstating their school, in lengthening the school term, in making the poorest county among the richest of the state, we should have a new Georgia in the course of a short time. We do not want to let up in our efforts to do the useful in usual ways, such as new families on farms, etc., but if we could only persuade the torch-bearer to stick the flame to his trousers instead of the trees, we should make more progress. He not only burns his own woods and trees and cuts down his own earning power and value, but he burns up his neighbor's trees at the same time.

"Of course, timber cannot be gathered annually. But in the course of a very few years the resin and turpentine would yield annual revenue. And it would be greater and more certain than any farm crop. And it is yet being planted. And it is inevitable that the price of lumber is to increase, and Georgia with millions of acres that are more or less undesirable for farming and do not lend themselves to cultivation particularly well, can stand as good as the best from an income standpoint if nature could only get our intelligent help, or if we would only avoid hindering her."

The National Forestry association has recently agreed to provide a large annual match-fund for the development and teaching of forestry, the protection of timber, etc., and leaders of the forestry movement in the state are now in the field in the endeavor to raise Georgia's quota in order to make this fund available.

Among the activities proposed are traveling forestry schools—instruction motor cars with moving pictures, lecturers, etc. That is to say something to instruct and also to entertain. It is a fine proposal for every child should be taught the importance of conservation, the folly of woods burning, and the love for trees.

Health Talks

HYGIENE BEFORE COURTESY.

Mrs. E. W. Asks where she may obtain a contrivance to discourage the habit of thumb sucking, and also wishes to know how to manage a boy 11 years old who thoroughly dislikes getting slicked up a bit for dinner in the evening—no dressed up but just clean—dislikes it to the point of creating a scene with tears and temper. The boy is very bright in school and in perfect physical condition, in short, a real boy, but in this one thing he is a problem. Mrs. E. W. adds that in the management of her seven children—three girls and four boys—she has found many helpful things in my articles for several years past.

I am sending Mrs. E. W. the address of a manufacturer of a device to discourage thumb sucking. I am going to try to tell how to manage the boy, and in order to do so I say right here that hygiene comes before courtesy or manners. I advise Mrs. E. W. to base her campaign on the paramount issue in the boy's life, which is, of course, health. We had better not stir up the moralists just now, but it is safe to mention that the critical juncture the universal indorsement of the primacy of health by educators.

Another should establish the standard of cleanliness at the table and firmly uphold it. If any lady or gentleman fails to muster a tolerable degree of cleanliness at dinner time, let him or her be sent to a suitable place of isolation and his or her food doled out separately. A few solitary meals of this kind will soon put the boy on his feet. At the same time the boy should be taught that a gentleman invariably stands and helps a lady to her chair before he sits down at the table. Racking my brains I can find no very convincing hygienic reason for this little act of courtesy, but I will just throw it out without any extra charge if the critics will pardon the presumption.

A fellow who eats without first having washed his hands carefully, who has a habit of getting some disease from contamination of his hand and his food. This doesn't cover washing one's face for the occasion, at least. It is a matter of the face, not the hands. And it is inevitable that the price of lumber is to increase, and Georgia with millions of acres that are more or less undesirable for farming and do not lend themselves to cultivation particularly well, can stand as good as the best from an income standpoint if nature could only get our intelligent help, or if we would only avoid hindering her."

Charles S. Barrett, president of the National Farmers' union, returning from Washington the other day where he had had a conference with the president, was describing to me the "new"—and yet the old—white house.

It was interesting—and maybe it will interest readers, as nothing in detail has been written about it.

While preserving perfectly the general aspect and outlines of the famous old house, a great many improvements were made in the six months which passed since that March day when President and Mrs. Coolidge were to the White House to make their home and took up their temporary residence on Dupont circle.

After one hundred and twenty-seven years of occupancy the roof of the executive mansion had been declared unsafe, and it has now been replaced by a new slate roof supported by steel beams and hollow tile arches.

The most conspicuous improvement in the historic mansion, however, consists in the conversion of garret rooms into a new wing, which considerably enlarges the housing capacity of the white house in an emergency. Elsewhere a new floor has also been extended to this new floor.

Many of the rooms, including the president's office have been repainted and redecorated with a new coat of white paint has been given to the exterior. The passageway leading from the third floor to the roof of the south porch has been tiled so that it may be used as a roof garden.

The walls of the famous red and green rooms on the first floor are now covered with new damask hangings, which are, however, in accordance with tradition, still red and green.

With all this renovating and sprucing up of the house, no lodge to which the Coolidges returned, and yet there were plenty of evidences to their former residence.

Little of the furniture has been changed, and the proposal to furnish the white house with early American antiques which was given such wide publicity a year or two ago has not yet been undertaken.

CROP GAINS BREAK 18-YEAR RECORD

ter and eggs, it was explained. These products more than offset lower prices in other commodities.

Warm weather throughout the first half of September materially improved the condition of the corn crop, the department said. Owing to improved conditions and heavy marketing, corn prices are on a steady decline.

The 5.4 cent rise in cotton prices from 15 cents to 22.5 cents was the largest increase between August and September since 1909 and at 22.5 cents, the farm price on September 15 was higher than middling quotations at any of the spot markets, also a very unusual situation, it was explained.

Indications on October 1, as reported by the crop board, were for a production of 12,678,000 bales. The final figures for the 1926 crop was reported at 17,777,734 bales.

According to a world survey, the visible world supply of cotton on September 30 was about 1,000,000 bales above the supply on hand September, 1926.

With records lower and demands higher, cotton prices are expected to rise. New crops during the next six months.

The wheat situation has not changed materially in the last month.

FARM RELIEF MEASURES STUDIED.

Washington, October 14.—(AP)—Farm relief legislation is being explored in the administration, in congress and outside of governmental circles in the hope that an acceptable and practical measure can be worked out at the coming session of the house and senate.

The Vagaries That Complicate the Senatorial Dilemma as to Vore.

Philadelphia, October 14.—(Special). Here in Philadelphia, the city of brotherly love, boss rule and hum politics it is immensely amusing to hear gentlemen of the United States senate, the University of Pennsylvania and the dictators of a new world of suffrage, talking solemnly and impressively of the importance of preserving and enforcing "state rights."

Of course, the subject of the discussion is the right of Boss Vore to a seat in the United States senate, hence the importance of the discussion.

But any talk about the middle '90's, after the war between the states, and after Georgia's state government had been reorganized under the leadership of President Andrew Johnson, the legislature of the state regularly elected Herschel V. Johnson and Alexander H. Stephens to be the senators from Georgia in the congress of the United States.

They were duly certified as such by the governor, attested by the secretary of state, and their certificates bearing the great seal of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

'Gimme - Game' Fans Supply Host of Puns and Smiles

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

Bankers, lawyers, school children, business men and women, salesmen and society queens are among those who have fallen for the "Gimme-Sentence" game conducted by The Constitution, so if you want to select a word and make a crazy sentence out of it you will be in good company. Indeed one of the contributions was sent in Friday by no less a personage than a Daughter of the American Revolution. That certainly ought to add prestige to the column. The editor is some kind of a son of revolutions himself, as he used to take tickets in a merry-go-round.

Griffin, Ga., gets on the map again today with a contribution sent in by Clayton Brown, secretary of the Goode-Nichols Furniture company. He selected the word "dynasty" and made the following sentence: "The nasty hum would never take a bath, therefore he will dynasty." Clayton better watch his furniture business, however, somebody begins to ring in counterfeit nickels on the Goode-Nichols outfit.

Mrs. W. R. Mizelle, The Decatur, Ga., Piedmont and Third streets, sent in the following clever sentence with "hook and eye" as her words: "Hook and eye depend on when I'm broke." Take time out for a minute while you figure that out.

More Hot Ones.

We're afraid there's some propaganda somewhere in this sentence of Waddy N. Parks, Auburn avenue, in which he uses the word "propaganda," as follows: "Uncle Josh did not raise any young geese because he did not have the propaganda." And there won't be a new crop of monkey glands until next season.

From Jackson, Ga., that incubator of pretty girls down in Butts county, comes this suggestion from J. G. McDonald: "Try gilet on your Gimme-a-Sente ce weaving machine." Well, we would be afraid it would bore 'em to death.

Mrs. W. W. Crawford, Cedar town, Ga., uses the "woop" dialect with "Euripides" and "freezer" as her words and gets the following interesting reaction: "Euripides, cool and you freezer de skin." We are coming over there to Polk county some day to Cedar town.

Down in White Plains, Ga., Sarah Wheeler, 15-year-old high school girl, got her mind off Latin verbs and boys long enough to prepare this sentence based on "inimicitia" as her word: "Inimicitia to come by for a book today, but I suppose she forgot it."

Mrs. L. E. Wheeler, of the same place, sent in several clever contributions, one of the best being the following touching on the recent hot race for the mayoralty in Macon: "Wonder why they were Macon such a racket down in middle Georgia the other day? Oh, I dunno, they mayor had a race of some kind."

Here's an Oily One.

Something like a salad course is provided by R. C. Morris, Beach, Ga., with the following: "May who?" "Mayonnaise."

"No, I think she's dressing."

Some thousands of business men, stenographers and other workers in down-town buildings Friday afternoon enthusiastically greeted the warming hiss of steam as it spread its way through radiator coils, empty for many months. The arrival of the steam followed on the heels of an announcement Friday noon by the Georgia Power company that the steam would be turned on two weeks in advance of the contract date because of the discomfort felt by office and store workers during the present cold snap.

The contracts call for the steam service to begin on November 1.

A majority of Atlanta's larger downtown buildings are supplied by steam service, and officials of the company decided Friday morning that the continuing cold weather demanded that the service be made available immediately. The steam plants were fired up, and by noon sufficient steam had been generated to permit it to be turned into the mains, and the frigidity of the office buildings was relieved in the afternoon.

DOMINANT!

The publication of the last statements of circulation by the three Atlanta Newspapers, as required by the United States Government, expresses in unmistakable terms the growing popularity of The Atlanta Constitution.

NEARLY HALF A MILLION MORE COPIES OF THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION HAVE BEEN SOLD DURING THE PAST SIX MONTHS THAN OF THE SECOND PAPER---449,997, to be exact.

NEARLY TWO MILLION MORE COPIES OF THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION HAVE BEEN SOLD DURING THE PAST SIX MONTHS THAN OF THE THIRD PAPER---1,971,655, to be exact.

Reducing this to a daily average, Mr. Advertiser, it means just this:---With copy appearing in The Atlanta Constitution, your advertising message circulated in an average of 2,459 MORE PAPERS EACH DAY than were obtained through the second paper---and an average of 10,785 MORE PAPERS EACH DAY than through the third paper.

There is no substitute for circulation--particularly when such dominant circulation is coupled with reader-confidence. :: :: :: ::

SYNOPSIS

On the way to Donald Brierly's house at Roxbury for luncheon Connie Elmore, Donald's fiancée, tells her friends Olive Weston that Donald stands a chance of inheriting half a million from the estate of old Harrowby, a friend of Donald's father. Olive and Connie share a flat in London. Olive is secretly in love with Donald but sincerely pleased at Connie's good fortune in winning him. Sandle and Querk, solicitors handling the Harrowby estate, are crooked and plot to cheat Donald Brierly of the fortune by having a spurious heir appear whose claim is prior to Donald's. In the midst of the plotting Augustus Brierly, Donald's father, presumed to have died on the Titanic, calls on Sandle. Querk suggests to Sandle that he invite Brierly to Harrowby house and there with the assistance of Querk's tool, Wado, dispose of Brierly.

Connie decides to visit her old nurse who is now caretaker of Harrowby house. Mrs. Jones is out but Connie finds the key and lets herself in to wait for her. She hears strange noises in the library and, going to investigate, she sees Sandle and another man kill Mr. Brierly, whom she recognizes from his portrait. Rushing out of the house, Connie stumbles into Mr. Querk. While telling her story, Querk pushes her to the wall where she had seen the man place the body. Querk accompanies her to the police station, where she tells her story to the police superintendent. Querk intimates that she imagined the scene and in exasperation Connie goes to see Olive, who believes her story.

Querk requests Sandle to come to the superintendent's office and he presents his alibi, which the police officer accepts. The two lawyers proceed to Wado's office where they wait for him. The old man dies just after they walk into the office.

The next morning Connie calls on Querk and meets young Jones there. She recognizes him as her old nurse's son, but does not know that he has been posing as Henry Turle, Jr. Querk later pretends that Connie imagined she saw young Jones. He tells Olive that Sandle is about to bring criminal suit against Connie unless she agrees to marry him. She has her committed to a private sanitarium which she recommends. While Donald is visiting Connie at Merton house a body is found buried in his garden. The case goes on the case by her newspaper, movie and warm. Donald, she arranges a hiding place for him in London. Detective Rason calls on Olive.

INSTALLMENT LIV. AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

It seemed a strange way to set about arresting any one, Olive thought.

"Do you want me?" she asked.

"I'd like to come in if you can spare a couple of minutes," said Rason.

Then he did not want to arrest her, after all! With the sense of relief came an unreasonable irritation at having been caused an unnecessary shock.

"I don't want to be rude—but can't we do it here?" she suggested.

"The flat's in an awful state. I haven't had time to make arrangements to have it cleaned—and I'm fearfully busy."

"I'm sorry, Miss Weston, but I shan't detain you more than two minutes—quite literally," said Rason.

"O, very well," said Olive, and applied her latchkey.

She stepped over the threshold and with a gesture gave the men permission to follow her. The second man, however, remained on the landing.

"Aren't you coming in?" she asked.

"No, thank you, madam. I'll wait here," he answered.

She saw Rason glance down the tiny corridor of the flat before following her into the sitting room.

"I warned you the place was like a pig sty," she said. "What's your little idea, Mr. Rason?"

"I want you to give me permission to search the flat."

Olive frowned in sheer perplexity.

"Whatever for?" she demanded in astonishment. "Forged bank notes?"

Rason smiled wearily.

"I think you know what for."

"Honest injun!"

The detective shrugged his shoulders.

"The only point is, will you give permission?"

"I'm afraid I won't," said Olive irritably. "You choose to make a mystery about it and it's very inconvenient. In any case, you'll have to wait for half an hour. I haven't made my bed."

For a moment Rason was silent, and then:

"Believe me, Miss Weston, that half hour will be of no use to you. You saw my man outside. There is one watching the rear of the building as well. I've admitted I haven't got a search warrant, but I can get one within an hour. You shan't get anybody out of this flat within an hour."

"Not even yourself?" challenged Olive.

"All the same, I think I can. Now I'll wait a better time for the manmade bed—and I'll save you the trouble of getting search warrants—I will give you permission if you'll just tell me what you're looking for."

Rason frowned as it seemed that she was merely trying to make him appear ridiculous.

"Donald Brierly, of course," he said bluntly.

Olive gasped as a staggering truth broke upon her. Less than half an hour ago she had told Querk that Donald Brierly was in her flat—and here were the police, determined to search it.

"Search the flat by all means, Mr. Rason."

Rason bowed and left the room.

Slowly Olive was forcing herself to the stupendous conclusion.

"So Querk is one of the crooks. Querk is in the conspiracy. Querk wants Donald hanged."

Then, in a flash, came inspiration. "Querk is one of the crooks. Querk must know I've fooled him."

To search the little flat with its three rooms, kitchen and bathroom for a six-foot man was a matter of most of seconds. . . . Rason had returned to the sitting room.

Rason, of course, would report not only that Donald Brierly was not there but even that he had not spent the night there. Rason knew that she had lied to him about her movements on the previous night. In spite of her irritation she had not got over a queasy feeling for him—a very definite respect.

"Mr. Rason, you know I'm a liar," she said impulsively. "But you don't believe I'm a crook, do you? You don't think I would really stand in on a bathroom murder committed for the sake of money, do you?"

Rason looked at her long before answering.

"I think you're clever enough for it to be safe for me to make any admissions to you."

"Without your making a futile use of it," said Olive quickly. "So here goes: I warned Donald Brierly to escape."

"I know you did," said Rason.

"But do you know why? Do you think it is because I wanted to shield a man who would strike down for the sake of money and nothing else a poor old man who came to see him late at night?"

Rason did not answer.

"You are not mad enough to believe that I see," pressed Olive. "Very well, then, you must believe that I believe Donald Brierly innocent—that I believe him to be the victim of a conspiracy. And I'm going to tell you one of the conspirators."

"Stop," warned Rason. "You're playing a very dangerous game. I can't make a bargain with you. I've got very nearly enough to arrest you now as an accessory. The next slip you make—and you're pretty sure to make another soon—I probably shall arrest you."

"I know all that," said Olive impatiently. "I don't want a bargain. I'm just going to give you a piece of advice. Don't tell Querk that when you searched this flat you came to the conclusion that he hadn't been here at all. Querk, let me tell you, is one of the men, directly or indirectly, responsible for the murder."

"I can't promise."

"Laudible, don't keep saying that. I know it. Work it out this way. This dreadful girl (meaning me) may be a crook shielding a murderer. On the other hand, she may know her innocent. Querk may be a respectable solicitor or, as she says, he may be a crook. It's certainly odd that that bright young girl (me again) knew at once it was Querk who sent us to the flat."

"Really, Miss Weston?" protested Rason.

"I've given you the tip," said Olive. "Whatever you make of it, you will certainly go slow now. And remember, you'll lose nothing by just reporting the man wasn't there—and adding nothing to that. Good morning, Mr. Rason."

Rason moved toward the outer door of the flat.

"Do you think an amateur detective can do better than the entire police force? Why don't you tell us you know?"

"Because the only thing I know positively is that Querk is one of the murderers," said Olive. "And I can't prove even that yet. But," she added with an air, "I will keep you posted from time to time as to my discoveries."

"That game has been tried before—and it never works," he said. "You'll simply end by ruining yourself. Take my advice and give it up, Miss Weston."

So saying, he left the flat. Olive looked after him, her lips parted in a whimsical smile.

"He's really quite a nice lad at heart," she reflected. "And I believe he rather likes me in spite of everything."

Dear Ma and Pa: Well, here I am in Hollywood. I stopped at the best hotel when I arrived, till I could find something more reasonable. Now I have a lovely comfortable room and everything is fine. I haven't collected my $4500 Beauty prize money yet, but I called at the Flicker Film Co. offices and the president was out of town working on a new picture, so there will be a few days delay before I get the money. Monday, however, I am starting to work as the star in their new big production, "Love's Awakening" and am looking forward eagerly to my new career. How are you all? RUM SHIP CAUGHT, CREW CAPTURED

Norfolk, Va., October 14.—(AP)—Capture of a rum-laden motor boat and its crew of four by opening fire after the alleged smugglers had taken to the water in an effort to swim to safety was reported to coast guard headquarters here today by the patrol boat CG-119.

Four thousand quarts of contraband whisky and alcohol were seized, the report said. The battle took place late yesterday near Wolf Trap on the eastern shore of Chesapeake Bay.

The Nomad, when challenged by the patrol boat, her commander said, endeavored to escape, heaving the craft. The coast guard boat, unable to follow into the shallow water, stood off with her guns pointed at the rum-runner. Flashes soon appeared on the Nomad and her crew jumped into the water. The CG-119 then opened fire and the men surrendered, the commander said.

Captain F. S. Van Roskerck, commander of the Norfolk coast guard division, said the Nomad's crew made a deliberate attempt to destroy their craft by fire.

"They poured gasoline all over the ship and even on their contraband cargo," he said.

"They took axes and chopped holes in the drums containing 20,000 quarts of alcohol, so that the inflammable liquids could be ignited from the fire that was spreading over the ship. Then they jumped into the sea, hoping to escape. But the CG-119 opened fire and the men surrendered. I don't think the coast guard crew was endeavoring to shoot any of the rum ship's crew. But the Nomad's men gave up quickly."

The four men composing the crew gave the names of Fred Knight, J. Boles, Norman Jones and A. W. Ward. Knight is listed as master. His home is said to be in Baltimore.

ELDER TO ARRIVE IN AZORES TODAY

ashore immediately, but the actress remained aboard the plane for a while. Because of unfavorable flying weather, it was considered improbable that the plane would hop off on the next stage of its transatlantic journey for another 24 hours.

Thus, these peaceful islands where ex-carts still rumble down ancient roads may see on Saturday evening the only living transatlantic aviators which have been at least partly successful.

Quarters Arranged.
According to present arrangements the American heavy prize winner will be in town 24 hours, at least. Living quarters are being arranged for Miss Elder and Haldeman by local and Portuguese authorities.

Then the American pair may go to Lisbon Sunday aboard the Portuguese steamer Lima.

Anxious as she is to reach Paris, Miss Elder is expected to leave Lisbon as soon as possible to go by boat or train where her plane failed to take her.

Reports from Paris indicate a remarkable celebration still awaits the daring girl whose epic flight fired the imagination of the whole world.

Slowly, perhaps too slowly for an impatient person, the tanker Barendrecht plods toward Horta. For a day and a half Ruth and Haldeman have shared the hard fare of the small vessel. Also, they have rested from the harrowing experience which almost sent them to death.

Mystery Shrouds Plans.
As for the Junkers' flight to New York by way of Newfoundland, Chief Pilot Fritz Loebe has couched it in mystery. He has refused to say when he would start again. In view of the bad weather, however, he would have difficulty in leaving before Miss Elder's arrival.

Because of the rough weather, Loebe had to exercise great skill in making a landing.

An indication of the ovation which awaits Ruth was seen in the greeting to the Junkers' crew. A large crowd braved a drenching rain to watch from a trolley dock the machine's arrival.

The Azores have such weather before but, like the earthquake which spread terror 15 months ago and killed 12 persons, flying machines are uncommon.

Elder's Flight Of Real Value, Says MacCracken

Milwaukee, October 14.—(AP)—Ruth Elder played an important part in the development of commercial aviation despite the fact she was unable to reach her goal, in the opinion of William P. MacCracken, assistant secretary of commerce, who last night addressed a banquet attended by Milwaukee aviators.

"Miss Elder demonstrated that the southern Atlantic lane is the safest under ordinary circumstances," said Mr. MacCracken, who is in charge of commercial aviation for the country.

"The fact that steamships constantly travel the route she selected probably saved her life."

lands three years ago. A few prospective transatlantic flights began from the Azores and only a few months ago, Commander Francesco De Pinedo, the Italian four-continent flier, fell into the ocean near the Azores, was picked up by a steamer and brought here. Subsequently he flew on to Lisbon and Rome.

As for women transatlantic fliers, the broad ocean still remains unsailed. While Miss Elder and Miss Dillenz have partially conquered the sea, they are the only two women who have attempted this most hazardous of all flights and have lived to tell about it.

The Azores expect to hear a remarkable tale of adventure when Miss Elder lands.

Her flight almost ended in tragedy. Local authorities have not forgotten Captain Goos, commander of the Barendrecht. He will receive the welcome of a hero when he arrives with his cargo.

His story of the American girl transatlantic flight and rescue, related to the world first through the United News, epitomized the splendid adventure.

The natives today often repeated the tale which would have done credit to the imagination of a novelist.

Captain Goos' dispatch to the United News said the American girl plane had encountered poor weather for 28 hours, during which time it must have flown about 2,600 miles. Then the fliers went into a terrific storm and were blown off their course. After succeeding in beating off the storm, they had three and a half hours of good weather.

Then then oil line—a tube about the diameter of a pencil and a few feet long—broke. It could not be repaired. To go on would have meant certain death. For five hours the aviators remained in the air until the Dutch tanker was sighted. Then the plane made a perfect landing beside the ship.

After Miss Elder and Haldeman were taken aboard, much fatigued, efforts were made to haul up the plane, which had not been damaged in the sea landing. But a gas tank exploded twice and the plane burned up and sank.

AVIATORS WILL LEAVE HORTA FOR LISBON.
London, October 14.—(AP)—The Westminster Gazette in an undated statement says that Ruth Elder and George Haldeman, of ill-fated plane, the American girl, will leave Horta, the Azores, Sunday for Lisbon, Portugal, having received permission from the promoters of their flight to continue their journey to Paris by ship and train. The fliers will be landed at Horta tomorrow by the steamer Barendrecht.

The paper adds that a European mission picture camera has invited Miss Elder to come to England, and that American film company has asked for an option for her services.

FREE STEAMERS OFFERED FLIERS.
New York, October 14.—(AP)—Ruth Elder and George Haldeman, rescued crew of the airplane American Girl, can take their pick of free steamboat transportation for continuation of their interrupted journey from the craft of two lines.

Yesterday the United States lines offered the fliers passage on any of the lines and today a like offer was made by the Cosulich line. The President Wilson of the Italian line touches the Azores on the 18th bound for New York and the Martha Washington on the 11th bound for Lisbon.

3 DIE IN CHAIR AT STATE FARM

Milledgeville, Ga., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Georgia's first triple execution was performed at the state prison today when three negroes went to the electric chair in the space of 38 minutes. All three confessed their guilt before the current was applied. The order in which the three condemned men should go to the chair was decided by Captain J. M. Burke, warden of the prison farm, and he supervised the executions. Judge B. H. Dunaway, superintendent of the farm, being incapacitated under a recent court ruling.

Wilbur Galloway, Dodge county negro, was the first to go. He entered the death chamber at 11:28 a. m. and made a full confession, declaring himself guilty of everything. "I am not sorry," he said. "I am not sorry."

Long testified that Stratton had concealed the true condition of the bank's affairs from him, and that he thought the solvent woman Floyd Hancock presented a deposit, a few hours after the doors were closed.

The crowd in the court room broke into a spontaneous cheer when the verdict was announced and had to be ordered to order. Thirty-nine cases of the same character against Long were also pressed.

EDMONDS URGES U. S. FLOOD SURVEY
Chattanooga, Tenn., October 14.—(AP)—Governmental survey of the entire Mississippi basin and its tributaries, with a view to locating reservoirs on the streams that would not only lessen possibility of flood disasters, but also give the territory for hydro-electric power, navigation and irrigation projects, was urged today before the Southern Appalachian publication, by W. H. Edmonds, of Manufacturers' Record, Baltimore.

Mr. Edmonds' suggestion was prefaced by a discussion of the merits of flood disasters. Floods are inevitable, he said, but we can handle them as to render them harmless."

A resume of chemistry's past place in industry and an outline of its vast future possibilities, he said, also were developed by the speaker.

"We cannot hope to stop floods," said Mr. Edmonds in beginning his address, "but we can hope to prevent them from doing us harm. We can handle them as to render them harmless."

Mr. Edmonds then outlined various possibilities for flood control, including the construction of dams, levees, and other structures.

The argument of the speaker was that these, while valuable in time of danger, were a dead loss, while reservoirs could be made to pay dividends through power, navigation and irrigation projects.

He stressed the power possibilities of the Arkansas, Red, Ohio and Missouri rivers and stated that comprehensive power surveys have already been made on the first two rivers.

After declaring that such projects were also necessary to take care of industrial development which is coming to the region involved, Mr. Edmonds said that the government survey of the basin "should be pushed with all possible speed, unhampered by the repeated, disheartening shortage of funds by which the army engineers are so often handicapped."

"There is no more disgraced and no indication of breach of faith," he said, "than the farmer who has been made to believe that the operation of Muscle Shoals will reduce the fertilizer bill anywhere from 25 to 43 per cent, depending on the imagination of the prophet, that since the original bills were passed the progress of science has changed the picture and that he is sure to be able to buy nitrates—thanks to synthetic ammonia—for less in the future than in the past."

In further discussing adaptation of Muscle Shoals to fertilizer production, Mr. Edmonds warned against committing so great a natural resource to a TRIP COMPLETED IN NINETEEN HOURS.

Pernambuco, Brazil, October 14.—(United News.)—Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Le Brix, French aviators, completed their transatlantic flight from the west African coast tonight, landing at Natal, Brazil, at 11:40 p. m. (9:40 p. m. eastern standard time).

They had left Saint Louis, Senegal, at 6:30 a. m. (2:30 a. m. eastern time). The time for the flight was 19 hours and 10 minutes.

BRAZIL PREPARES BIG RECEPTION.
Rio Janeiro, Brazil, October 14.—(AP)—The Brazilian Aero club has appointed a committee to receive Dieudonne Costes and Lieutenant Joseph Le Brix, who left Saint Louis, Senegal, this morning for a non-stop flight across the south Atlantic to South America.

The club also has sent instructions to its representatives at Pernambuco and Port Natal, on the Brazilian coast, to lend all necessary help.

Dieudonne Costes and Lieutenant Le Brix originally had planned to make a westward transatlantic flight to the United States, but were forced to give up the project by unfavorable weather conditions. They then developed their plan to fly across the south Atlantic to South America with the intention of being the first ever to make a successful flight from mainland Africa to the mainland of South America. Although the south Atlantic has been crossed by air half a dozen times, these flights were broken either by starts from the Cape Verde island or by landings on the island of Fernando de Noronha, about 140 miles off the coast of Brazil.

CONGRESSMAN BYRNS WINS ONLY LAW CASE

Springfield, Tenn., October 14.—(AP)—A Tennessee congressman was victor tonight in the only law case in his files—a criminal case involving his own cousin.

Joseph W. Byrns, tenth term representative from the sixth Tennessee district, found long ago he could not continue his once extensive law practice and at the same time serve the public. But when Forrest Long, former cashier of the defunct Peoples bank, faced a charge of receiving a deposit knowing the bank to be insolvent, Byrns consented to take on the case.

"If I win," he commented a few days ago, "I will at any rate have a record unusual for most lawyers—100 per cent."

Byrns won today despite the fact that W. H. Stratton, former president of the bank, was convicted on the same charge last year in Davidson county and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Long testified that Stratton had concealed the true condition of the bank's affairs from him, and that he thought the solvent woman Floyd Hancock presented a deposit, a few hours after the doors were closed.

The crowd in the court room broke into a spontaneous cheer when the verdict was announced and had to be ordered to order. Thirty-nine cases of the same character against Long were also pressed.

MONEY PROVIDED TO HOUSE ARMY

Washington, October 14.—(United News.)—The white house differed tonight with the reported statements of Major General Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the army, who is quoted as having criticized the administration for alleged failure to properly house the army.

General Summerall had been called back to Washington at the request of the president, it is said, to confer on budget matters. General Summerall was quoted as having said at San Diego that the army lived "like immigrants or like prisoners of war instead of soldiers of the United States."

The question is one of money, and until the United States is able to support an army of sufficient size, the administration is accused to the real need, nothing can be done and we shall in the meantime continue to perish by fast degrees," he is quoted as saying.

President Coolidge has looked into the appropriations for army housing and the white house said tonight without referring to Summerall's criticisms, that if the administration recommendations are acted upon by the end of the present congress a total of $24,000,000 would have been provided in the last three years to house the army.

He said that at the administration's request congress has passed a law providing that all funds from sale of war department lands and buildings should go into a housing fund. In the last three years more than $24,000,000 has been appropriated for army buildings and $14,000,000 more probably will be sought in the coming session, the white house said.

YOUTH DEPRIVED OF RADIO LICENSE
New York, October 14.—(AP)—The power of the federal radio commission was exerted today as an auxiliary to parental authority to save a 15-year-old enthusiast from ruining his health and neglecting his studies by spending his time operating his amateur station. As a result, station 2-UZT, operated by Eric H. Palmer, Jr., of West Brooklyn, will be silent at least until January 1, 1928.

Eric, Jr., it was said, went when he learned of the commission's action, but brightened up considerably when Eric, Sr., informed him that if he forgot about radio for a while, he would buy him a complete, new radio outfit.

In addition to neglecting his studies, the elder Palmer told the local representatives of the radio commission that his son had changed from a hale and hearty youngster to a pale, sunken-chested and weak-eyed youth.

definite product or process for a definite period of years. He said that in his opinion it would be a great error to make production of fertilizers at Muscle Shoals mandatory, because science was fast finding means that would supplant the methods intended in the project there. After giving examples of such progress, he said: "The utilization of Muscle Shoals power in other directions is a proper subject for extended discussion, but so far as fertilizers are concerned, the facts clearly indicate the advisability of abandoning the proposal."

Engine Talmadge, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, told the delegates that profitable operation of farms is necessary to enable rural residents to enjoy the conveniences of electricity.

"The great majority of farmers in southern states are operating under heavy burdens in the way of loans and taxes," he said. "We must find a way through the medium of increased crops, sold at a profit, to enable the farmers to pay off these modern improvements, without which, talk of progress in any commercial, industrial or agricultural lines is idle speculation."

The furnace of the southeastern states is not more backward than his brother in Oregon or Indiana, but in these states, the question of rural electrification has reached the high school period while with us it is in its infancy, in the kindergarten class, and our education on adaptation of electricity to country life is at its beginning."

Atlanta Company Favored For Track-Lowering Work

Coincident with recommendation of the bridge committee of city council Friday that Brooks-Callaway company of Atlanta be awarded the contract for lowering of tracks incident to construction of the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts, Mayor J. N. Ragsdale began work on obtaining contracts from railroads involved in order that actual work may be begun within the next 30 days.

Meanwhile members of the bridge committee and the mayor will reopen negotiations with Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power company, in an effort to break a deadlock which has developed between the company and the committee as to conditions on which the company will make $400,000 contribution to the improvements.

Mr. Arkwright will return to the city Monday and negotiations will be resumed immediately, it was announced.

Mr. Hartfield stated that the track lowering bids, which were considerably lower than the estimates, indicated that the city will be able to construct the improvements without a contribution from the power company. It is found that the city and company can not agree to terms on which the donation can be made.

Power Company's Stand.

Power company officials insist that the present agreement by which jitneys and busses in competition to its traction service are outlawed be continued, but provide that if in the interest of public convenience and necessity city council and the mayor ever abrogate the contract, the city must repay the company $200,000 of the $400,000 contribution. The bridge committee has balked at submitting the proposal to council, contending that acceptance of such a proposition would be "impossible." Many members of council contend that the company is making only a reasonable request, and argue that it is justified in asking that it be relieved of "unfair competition."

Fort McPherson Officer Ordered To Philippines

Warrant Officer Frederick C. Sutton, on duty at headquarters, Fourth Corps area, Fort McPherson, Ga., has just received orders to sail about December 21 for duty in the Philippine Islands.

Mr. Sutton has been on duty in the office of the adjutant general at corps area headquarters for the past seven years. Two years of his twenty-two years' service were spent in France during the world war. He saw action in four major offensives while serving in the railroad artillery.

Mrs. Sutton and their two boys will accompany Mr. Sutton to the Philippine Islands.

Sub-Committee Named In W. & A. Lease Proposal

Proposed extension of the present lease of Georgia-owned property in the city of Chattanooga sought by the Nashville & Chattanooga Properties company will be investigated by a subcommittee of the Western & Atlantic lease commission. It was announced following a meeting of the commission held in the office of Governor L. G. Hardman Friday.

At present the valuable properties in the city of Chattanooga owned by the state of Georgia are leased to the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad with 42 more years to the lease to run. Owners of the Nashville & Chattanooga Properties company want this lease extended by 57 years, so that substantial improvements can be made on these properties.

The proposal of the company was placed before the commission by Colonel Luke Lea and Edwin Warner, prominent Tennessee capitalists. The improvements proposed will cost a total of $2,000,000 and will greatly enhance the value of the state-owned property. It was declared.

After hearing the proposals, a subcommittee was named to investigate the situation and to prepare a report to be submitted to the commission at a meeting to be held October 28. C. Murphy Candler, chairman of the commission, was named chairman of the subcommittee with the following associates: Fernor Barrett, Torcon; J. P. Wilhoit, Warrenton; Perry Knight, Valdosta, and James A. Perry, chairman of the state public service commission.

It was decided at the meeting of the commission that the commission has authority, under the act creating it, to extend the lease of these properties if it is found that such extension is of advantage to the state of Georgia.

Under a contract now existing, the company is to erect improvements on this property to cost $250,000 by January 1, 1928, under the present lease of 42 years. If the 57-year extension is granted, the company proposes to build $2,000,000 worth of improvements.

Trio of Beautiful Weddings Feature the Calendar Today

Wedding bells will ring today for three charming Atlanta girls. Misses Janice Elizabeth Tumlin, Marilu Bostwick and Elizabeth O'Neill Bowling, all of whom will plight their troth at beautiful home ceremonies. Miss Tumlin will be wedded to John Will Whiteley, Jr., at high noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tumlin, on Ponce de Leon avenue, while Miss Bostwick's wedding will have as its picturesque setting the home of her sister, Mrs. Edwin Kerr, on Lullwater road, where she will become the bride of Ralph Dunlap Mobley. Miss Bowling's marriage to James Jackson Bowden, of Charlotte, N. C., will be solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Waters. Others social events of interest today will be the tea dance at the Chi Pi fraternity chapter house, and the dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. George McCarty will entertain at the Piedmont Driving club for Miss Rebecca Ashcraft and Claude McGinnis.

El Circulo Espanol Met Last Tuesday.

The El Circulo Espanol met Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Campbell, 374 Fourth street, N. E., at which plans of study were outlined for the ensuing year. El Circulo Espanol, one of the youngest of Atlanta's many cultural circles, was organized last January. Mrs. J. E. Campbell, president, and Mrs. E. Green, vice president, are both natives of Spain, and in addition quite a number of the club's members have resided in Spanish-speaking countries. The object of this organization is the study of Spain, in ancient and modern phases, with special emphasis given to its art and literature, a proper appreciation of which can be had only through the vehicle of its own beautiful language. The first program of El Circulo Espanol will have for its principal number a talk on "Spain" by Miss Sallie Stakely, who spent the past summer months in study there, with short readings about Spain by other members. Wednesday, October 26, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morens being hosts.

Economics Association Meets This Morning.

The executive board of the Georgia Home Economics association meets Saturday morning in the Ancles hotel, to make plans for the year program and the annual meeting to be held here in April at the same time as the Georgia Education association meeting.

Miss Isabel Wilson Entertains at Bridge.

Miss Isabel Wilson entertains at bridge this afternoon at the Hotel Candler in Decatur, in honor of Miss Mary Quinlan, of Agency Scott. The guests will be Misses Mary Quinlan, Julia Napier, Hortense Elton, Virginia Skeen, Elizabeth Tisen, Josephine Fairchild, Dorothy Lane, Helen Ray, Nancy Crockett, Elizabeth Berry and Mrs. Fraser Wilson.

Mrs. Joseph Bunch Is Bridge Hostess.

Mrs. Joseph Bunch was hostess at bridge Thursday afternoon, at her home on Candler street in Decatur. The guests were: Mesdames Herbert Rawlings, Sargent Gardner, Lewis Morris, Edwin Barry, Alfred Branch, Joseph Elder, Hugh Fluke, Manard Sanders, Perry Jackson, Jr., R. C. Henderson, T. M. Campbell, E. B. Sutton, James Perry, H. H. Froth, Ed Ripley, Jr., Clifford Ansley, and Miss Ida Story.

Dr. Memminger To Read Opera at Drama League.

Old members of the Atlanta Drama league are urged to bring their friends and prospective new members to the opening meeting of the league, Wednesday afternoon, October 19, in the Woman's club auditorium, where tea will be served. Dr. W. W. Memminger, rector of All Saints Episcopal church, will read Edna St. Vincent Millay's opera "The King's Henchman."

Mrs. Ten Eyck Brown, president of the league, also urges that all old members who have not already done so send in their dues for this coming year. To the treasurer, Miss Ellen Palmer, 138 8th street, N. E., before Tuesday.

Voting Contest At High Museum Arouses Interest

Interest in the exhibition of paintings and sculpture from the Associated Dealers now on view at the High Museum of Art is evidenced by the great number of votes that are being cast for the popular work of art in the collection.

Up to date No. 152, "Old Man of the Hills," by Malcolm Parcell, is in the lead with "Liane," by Murray Bewley, second, and No. 117, "Polly," by George de Forest Bruce, as third. The "Old Man of the Hills" is an academic painting, executed with much skill, freedom of technique and tender feeling for the subject, and it is easily understood why it has had so great an appeal to the lay public. "Liane" is a decorative, dainty portrait of a demure little girl with long blond hair, sitting quietly for her portrait to be painted. The tender appeal of this painting brings a response from all who love gentle, child-like dignity.

Interest appears to be growing in the essay contest and someone is going to win a very lovely etching with the small effort of writing a simple essay on what work of art in the exhibition they like best and why.

Gordon Allison, who is the official representative of the Associated Dealers, is present at the museum every day and is pleased to escort visitors through the galleries, giving information and assistance if desired.

Junior Orchestra To Practice Today.

The Junior Music club orchestra, under the direction of William Chase, will hold the first practice of the season at 11 o'clock Saturday morning in the "school room" on the fourth floor of Rich's department store. At 12 o'clock the "Penny Chorus" will organize and hold rehearsal under the direction of Miss Helen Knox Spain. Those not belonging to the club may sing in the chorus by paying a penny. New members may also register and join the club on Saturday. Dues are $1.50. Regular meetings are on the first and third Sundays. There will not be a musical program this Saturday as the program last Saturday at the luncheon takes the place of the third Saturday, for the month of October. For further details inquire of Mrs. G. Bingham Baeh, director, Hemlock 4236.

Mrs. C. D. Young Honors Oglethorpe Chapter.

Mrs. C. D. Young was hostess Wednesday evening at her home on Hill street in compliment to the officers of Oglethorpe Chapter O. E. S. Mrs. Young was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. E. N. Gibbs, her two daughters, Mrs. E. C. Young, and Mrs. E. N. Young, and Mrs. F. E. Kennell, and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Bijnun. Readings were given by Mesdames W. W. King and P. L. Willbanks and piano selections by Mrs. Speir and Miss Eleanor Speir.

Mrs. Newby Is Honored By Fulton Chapter, O. E. S.

Fulton chapter No. 181, O. E. S., met at the Masonic temple, East Point, Monday evening, October 10. This date marked the sixtieth anniversary of the birth of the oldest charter member of the chapter, Mrs. Missin Newby. After the business meeting, Mrs. Newby, youngest charter member of the chapter, presented a beautiful white birthday cake.

Mrs. Amalia Huehl, right worthy grand conductress of the General Grand chapter, and Mrs. Emma Viets, right worthy associate grand associate conductress, and Mrs. Ashby were guests Monday evening at the banquet and reception in honor of Mrs. Ida M. Stacy, grand matron, and on Wednesday evening at the banquet given at the Palmer house in honor of Mrs. Rose Mae Hall, newly elected grand matron.

Former Atlantans Take Part in Gaieties.

Hot Springs, Va., October 14.—The two golf tournaments of the week very notably accentuated the importance of the interest of the great autumn season at Virginia Hot Springs. The innovation this year of both tournaments being played during the same week resulted in increased entries and additional excellence of play. One hundred and twenty-five men registered for the meet at the Cascades course, and sixty women contested on the rebuilt Homestead long course. The week ended with a putting tournament today on the Homestead greens to aid the Community House hospital. It was given under the direction of the Baroness Marcus (Rozenkrantz) of Roseloe, a former Atlantian. Mrs. Evans, who was assisted by a number of well-known women of the colony. Mrs. Fay Ingalls is president of the Community House hospital, and Mrs. W. McKee Dunn, vice president.

There is very active interest at Virginia Hot Springs in affairs of the south. Mrs. Arthur Kelly Evans of Casa Ellet will leave early next week for Yorktown to attend the unveiling of the tablet she has placed on the old Custom House in remembrance of her ancestor, Major Nathaniel Fox, commanding officer of the garrison during the siege of Yorktown. Mrs. Evans also has presented memorials of her father, Major Pate in the Episcopal church at Bedford and also in St. Luke's church, here in Hot Springs. Rev. Father Richard Washington, formerly of Richmond and now pastor of the Catholic church here will go to Yorktown as the guest of Mrs. Evans. Father Washington, whose father, the late George Washington, was the last of his line to be born at Mount Vernon, was a guest of honor at the recent celebration at York, Pa., where he celebrated high mass in honor of the founding of York as the capital of the United States.

BACKACHE, HEADACHE, TIRED FEELING, PAINS

MRS. MATTIE WICKER, who lives on R. E. D. A. near Anderson, S. C., says:

"About two or three years ago, I had been feeling so bad I just knew I would have to take something. I would have severe headache, backache and pain in my limbs. I would get up in the morning, all tired out, with a bad taste in my mouth, and I wouldn't feel like eating."

"I was at one time terribly constipated, and had a breaking out from indigestion. I took Black-Draught and the breaking out disappeared and I felt so much better."

"Black-Draught is the best medicine I have found for constipation and indigestion. I give it to my children for colds, and it does them a lot of good."

"Black-Draught is a family medicine with us. We have been taking it for more than a year now, and I wouldn't be without it."

Thousands of people have found relief, in cases of common indigestion, by taking a pinch of Black-Draught after meals, and continuing this treatment for several days.

Thedford's Black-Draught is made of medicinal efficient roots and herbs, carefully selected, finely ground, and mixed in just the right proportions to form a natural remedy for many disorders of the digestive system. It has been in extensive use for more than 85 years.

You should not hesitate to give this well-known, long-established medicine a thorough trial, if troubled with indigestion, constipation or biliousness. Sold everywhere. Get a package today. Price 25c. JA-75

Petrels Primed for Opening Game With Cadets Today

All Charleston Agog on Eve Of Big Game

Thousands Will Attend Annual Classic Between Rival Grid Teams.

BY FRED McEACHIN.
Charleston, S. C., October 14.—This quaint, historical old city of Charleston is all agog tonight on the eve of the annual gridiron classic between the Oglethorpe Petrels of Atlanta and the Citadel Cadets to be held in the new athletic field Saturday afternoon.

The Oglethorpe warriors arrived here this morning at 10:10 o'clock and after lunch journeyed out to the field for a light workout, the final practice before the game.

Petrels Workout.
The Petrels rehearsed for an hour and a half just outside the new Johnson Hagood Memorial stadium. All of the men appeared to be in the best of physical condition and declared they were ready for the fracas after a peppy drill of passes, going down after punts and running signals.

While the Birds were working out their opponents were being put through their final practice session on their own field, and it was very obvious that they were in the pink of condition and eager to cop the first home game of the season. The Saturday contest will mark the initial appearance of the cadets at home this year. They have played three games already and have had the misfortune of losing each of them. Consequently the Charlestonians will put up a desperate fight to break this spell of continued losses.

Dedicate New Stadium.
In addition to the first appearance of the home team on local soil quite a bit of color will be added to the game through the dedication of the newly erected Johnson Hagood Memorial stadium. Elaborate dedication exercises have been planned by the city officials. The Citadel band will lead the march out on the field at 2:50 o'clock, followed by the student body, several troops of Boy Scouts and a cortege of sailors. Mayor Stoney will deliver an address to be followed by

MOREHOUSE AND HOWARD CLASH TODAY

With 30 or more grid warriors primed for the starting whistle and confident of whipping the Bisons, Coach Harvey put the Morehouse Tigers through a light signal drill and punting practice Friday and announced the team in excellent condition for the game today between Howard university of Washington, D. C., and Morehouse college, on the Morehouse athletic field at 2:30 o'clock.

Coach Watson and his 1926 champions arrived here Friday bringing a squad of 22 or more men and with high hopes of taking a victory back to Washington with them. The team went directly to Morehouse and held a light workout.

This season Morehouse will have the best chance it has had in years to turn them back, at the least, the Tigers will be seeking revenge and a hard battle is expected.

Two Stars Injured.
It was announced here this afternoon that two of the Citadel's regulars will be out of the game. These men are Brown, variety end, and Hasselmeier, halfback. This will handicap the team somewhat but it figures about an even break because of the fact that Lindsey Vaughan, star Petrel backfield man, and Clement, variety end, are not able to participate in the opener because of recent injuries.

Coach Robertson's selection for his starting lineup is expected to be as follows:
Hutson, center; Captain Guthrie and Godsmith, guards; Perkins and Sims, tackles; Burford and Hancock, ends. In the backfield, Carlington, quarter; White and Wall halves; and Shepherd, fullback.

Tide Weight Big Advantage Says Bjorkman

Coach Says Tech Must Play Inspired Football To Stem Crimson.

BY "HANK" BJORKMAN.
If I put before the public the actual conditions surrounding the game between Tech and Alabama this Saturday half of the radicals would say super-pessimistic. The remaining half would call me crazy. But Barum once said, "You can't please them all." So for the sake of some who profess to know something about football, and who will treat the facts from a negative point of view, I will endeavor to express what the coaches at Tech are confronted with.

The following is typical, and as assured, not absurd. The telephone rings at the coaches' offices, a voice on the other end asks for Coach Bjorkman. In an excited and wailing tone, he tells me that a friend of his in Alabama just wired him to the effect that he would bet $100 and spot Tech 14 points, and would I please inform him whether to take it or not. My answer was, "Hell, no, he's watched Alabama and he wants to make a sucker of his friend."

At the club, the following may be heard hourly, "I'll be if I can see how Tech can lose." For such optimism I would advise reading "The Game of Football" by Cavanaugh.

Glaring Defects.
Two victories might have been gratifying to spectators who have watched Tech in the games this season, but they overlook the glaring defects and many mistakes and watch the spectacular side of the game. It is on this basis that opinions, asserions and friendly bets are made.

I made the statement last week that Tech was far from right and would have to fight hard to evenly battle Tulane. I believe that statement was justified. We have had to race against time, to prepare for Alabama, and due to lack of experience this work has come along very slowly. Because of injuries, we were not able to scrimmage this week, which meant dummy drill, explaining various formations with the hope that our boys get maximum results by watching the actual play.

This was our only alternative and it is far from the best. Tech has not arrived to date, by the time they are not working as a unit. We have had showings of good football in spots, but a good football team must be able to do this from start to finish.

Tech has one of the lightest teams in the conference, averaging 174 pounds per man, which is a handicap when thrown against much heavier opponents. Durant will be in no shape to play, which means that we will have Horn at quarter. Tech has not been playing the football that he is capable of and I hope he snaps out of it before it is too late in the season. Our line is not in the condition we hoped it would be and it is futile to force them so far one game.

Tech Plays Stopped.
The constant reports from Tuscaloosa that the Yellow Jacket plays were stopped short in service due to not surprise me. They stopped the

Cedartown Beats Rockmart Eleven

Cedartown, Ga., October 14.—The Cedartown High school football team won its third straight game by trouncing the Rockmart team in Rockmart Friday afternoon by a score of 24 to 6. The teams battled on even terms during the first half, but in the last half the Cedartown team came to life and completely rushed the Rockmart boys off their feet.

The outstanding players for Cedartown were Wood, Wyatt and Coffee. Carpenter played best for Rockmart. The Cedartown team will play Tech High in Atlanta next Friday and although Coaches Lancaster and Chambers can hardly expect to win over Tech High, they will have their boys ready to give the Techsters a good game.

heavy L. S. U. team and unquestionably would have won on a dry field. Statistics of the game show that yards gained from running plays by L. S. U. totaled seven yards and yards lost from running plays totaled 10 yards, which means that L. S. U. is on the negative side as far as running of fence plays are concerned. This should convince some that Alabama's defense is strong. Their line averages over 200 pounds from end to end and that is a heavy line, no doubt about it.

As Alabama came down to inspect the field Friday I was stunned by the mountainous size of the men. My immediate reaction was: "I wish Tech had a few of those boys." Speaking to one of the boys, I asked him what he weighed and he answered, "Only 225." Five boys that start for Alabama today weigh in at about this figure.

Pickard and Pearce, the tackles, are about the best I have ever seen. Bowdoin, the Tide's running guard is surprisingly fast, considering his weight. McClintock, at quarter, knows football and handles the team very well. His selection of plays in previous games shows this.

Great Backs.
One is indeed fortunate to have a wealth of backfield material like Alabama. Consider men like Brown, Brasfield, Holm, Hicks, Taylor, Harner on one team. Brasfield, in my opinion, is every bit as good as Spears, of Vanderbilt, and you will see an exceptional ball carrier in today's game. He doesn't know when he's down. A real triple threat man that is dangerous to any team. Without Parham Tech loses its only triple threat man.

Alabama's running attack is with out doubt the most powerful in the south, and unless Tech tackles hard the Tide will romp merrily up and down the field.

I seem certain that the Tide will wear Tech down. I believe that both sides will play a very cautious game at the start, both sides may expect a drop or placement kick, unless the answer by the game itself.

Bert Niehoff May Succeed Boston Pilot

Cracker Manager Mentioned as Dave Bancroft Is Released.

New York, October 14.—(United News.)—The Brooklyn Robins have purchased Dave Bancroft from the Boston Braves for $20,000.

No players were involved in the transaction. Bancroft may become manager of the Brooklyn club under the supervision of Wilbert Robinson. Who will succeed Dave as pilot of the Braves is not known. Bert Niehoff, present manager of the Atlanta baseball club, is mentioned as a likely candidate.

Judge Fuchs, president of the Braves, said he had parted with Bancroft with regrets. The Braves went into a tail spin on their last western tour and all but crashed the cellar. A change of leaders was demanded.

Wanted Players.
The Boston president wanted to obtain some players in exchange for his manager, but the Brooklyn club was too weak to respond to this suggestion.

Bancroft has been manager of the Braves since 1924. Before that he was a star on the New York Giants, who bought him from the Phillies in 1920.

Dave's days as a player are numbered, and when he gets to Brooklyn he probably will be used as an advisor rather than a shortstop.

Bert Niehoff, present manager of the Atlanta baseball team, when informed late Friday night of the Boston deal in which Manager Dave Bancroft was released and his name mentioned as a likely candidate for the position, stated he knew nothing of the change in the club and that he had no deal on with the Braves.

DELANEY WINS OVER RENAULT IN 10 ROUNDS

Miss Rosalie Mayer Shoots an 89 To Finish in Meet at Brookhaven.

New York, October 14.—(P)—Jack Delaney, retired champion of the light heavyweights, pounded out a close decision over Jack Renault, former headliner in the class, in a 10-round match at Madison Square Garden tonight. The fight, officially opened Tex Rickard's campaign to determine the next logical contender for a shot at Gene Tunney's title.

Delaney, at 177 pounds, conceded 19-1-2 pounds to his fellow Canadian and handed him a solid trouncing after being on floor less time than it took to start a count in the second round. A solid right to the ear spilled the retired king of the light heavyweights, but he was not badly hurt and fought back vigorously.

A vicious right uppercut, as Renault backed out of a clinch in the fourth round, caught the former Canadian mounted policeman squarely on the nose and started a flow of blood that continued several rounds. The nose appeared to have been broken and was split badly along the ridge. In the closing rounds Renault redoubled his efforts to smash out a victory through pounded at Delaney's body. Jack was too clever, however, and the continual clinching that followed Renault's style of attack brought rounds of wholehearted boos from the 16,236 fans who paid $54,134 to see the contest.

Commercial High Eleven Loses, 13-0.
Douglasville, October 14.—(Special.)—Commercial High school lost to Douglasville High at Douglasville by the score of 13 to 0 here Thursday in a hotly-contested game.

In the first half Smith, of Douglasville, recovered a fumble and ran 62 yards for a touchdown.

Smith and Meek played well in the line for the winners, while Miller and Seitz were best in the line for Commercial. Stinchcomb played well for the losers in the backfield.

Miss Maddox Wins One-Day Tournament

Playing in the same splendid fashion that marked her winning performance in the recent East Lake championship, Miss Margaret Maddox, with an 85, took down first honor and the Miller cup in the one-day medal tournament held Friday morning by the Atlanta Woman's Golf association over the Capital City course.

Miss Rosalie Mayer, present city champion, finished second, with a creditable mark of 89, while Mrs. T. T. Williams, with a neat 91, came third. Mrs. L. H. Beck and Mrs. A. Guy Smith were tied for fourth place with 95. Eighteen of the best golfers in the city turned out for the event.

Miss Maddox, who is probably the longest driver in Atlanta, was getting fine length off the tee and was combining good distance with very accurate direction. In fact not once during the 18 holes did she wander off the fairway or into a trap.

After turning in 41, Miss Maddox continued her steady play on the 44th round trip to finish the last nine in 44.

Tuskegee To Play Clark Line Saturday

Tuskegee Institute, Ala., October 14.—Considerable interest is focused on the Clark-Tuskegee game which will be played in the bowl on Saturday. Clark has met defeat for two successive seasons at the hands of the Tigers, but this year the Panthers are coming to Tuskegee with the most impressive team that the South Atlanta school has ever had. With a string of veterans such as the Baker brothers, Beck, Johnson and others, all versatile athletes, Tuskegee is ready to go. Baker, Clark's drop kicker, is a dangerous man anywhere on the field, and if his team ever gets near the goal line one may expect a drop or placement kick, unless the team "chooses" to do otherwise.

CEREBROSPINAL
AFTER EARLY RISE

New York, October 14.—(AP)—Curb stock prices, which moved up briskly in the early dealings today, turned reactionary following a stiffening in the call money rate and consequent irregularity on the "big board." A few shares which had gained new high territory soon after the opening, suffered heavy pressure toward the close and fell below yesterday's final figures.

Passing of a dividend by directors of Prairie Oil caused a 2-point break in the common stock of that company, which closed at 1 1/2. Solidarity petroleum issues, including Imperial of Canada, and Humble, declined in sympathy after selling at maximum figures.

Operating operators took Swift International for a brisk rise to a new peak, but heavy offerings appeared above 26 1/2 and the stock sank fractionally below yesterday's close. W. T.

Grant again sold at the year's peak, established yesterday, but later lost

4 points on profit-taking.

Public Utilities were influenced by special considerations, and a revival of merger talk. Bridgeport Gas Light went up 1/2 point and the stock sank of the latter in reflection of stockholders' approval of a refinancing program. A burst of strength by United States Steel, which had been trailing the fact that the stock has been selling out of line with

American Light and Traction, and other issues, large blocks of which it owns.

Borden Company common and preferred shared new peaks, and Celanese shares made up part of the sharp declines. New highs for the year or longer were attained by

General Electric, United Fruit, and

Axle. Midland Steel scored an extreme gain of more than 5 points to 43 1/2, in sympathy with strength in the preferred issue on the stock exchange.

Flat newspaper paper suitable for small publishers and job printers. The price is right.

P. O. Box 1731, Atlanta, Ga.

This splendid offering, book by William Anthony McGuire and Otto Harbach and a score by Harry Tierney, with lyrics by Joseph McCarthy, was staged by Edward Royce. Seats for the remaining performances are on sale at the Erlanger box office, M. Rich & Bros. Co., and Phillips & Crew Piano Co.

Coming to Erlanger.

Cecil B. DeMille was inspired to make “The King of Kings” by the lessons he learned as a child at his father's knee. DeMille's dad was the noted Henry C. DeMille, author of “The Charity Ball,” “The Lost Paradise” and other fine dramas of two score years ago. He was a sincere Christian, a histrionic genius, with an orator whose talent could equally have adorned the pulpit, the rostrum or the stage. The senior DeMille read the immortal narrative of the New Testament with his young sons at the close of each day's work. The impression he stamped was never effaced. Throughout an extremely busy and varied career as actor, playwright and director, Cecil B. DeMille has retained vividly the childhood ambition to enact himself one day the wondrous drama. He has devoted years of his hours as a vocation to the study. In making “The King of Kings” he realized his father's unspoken wish. “The King of Kings” will be the attraction at the Erlanger theater throughout the coming week, beginning Monday night, with showings twice daily at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m. Seats may now be had at the Erlanger box office, M. Rich & Bros. Co., and Phillips & Crew Piano Co.

Capitol.

The Capers of 1927, one of the most elaborate flash acts ever seen on an Atlanta stage occupies a prominent place on the Pantages bill at the Capitol theater this week. It is a vaudeville bill in itself, no less than three star teams appearing during its all too brief twenty minutes on the stage. The teams are Buck and Tharion, Edna Hamel and Masse and Deitrich, all of them famous vaudevillians.

Loew's Grand.

Four performances will be given Saturday at Loew's Grand where the vaudeville bill is headed by Lester Lane and company. Other acts on the bill are Scott Brothers and Vernon, harmony singers and comedians; Al and Ted Waldman, black-face comedians and harmonica players; Savory and Mann, in a comedy sketch with music; Little Pixie and company, tumblers and acrobats; Ramon Novarro, late star of “Ben Hur” is the leading figure in “The Road to Romance” the Loew feature picture.

Coming to Grand.

Arrangements to handle record-breaking crowds next week during the engagement of “What Price Glory,” super-film of the world war, have been made at Loew's Grand theater. This great picture will be offered for the first time in Atlanta's popular picture next week. Besides the big picture three vaudeville acts of the headline class will be presented. The vaudeville portion of the program will be headed by Charles Abner, famous comedian and his “millionaire jazz band.”

Howard.

“The Magic Flame,” the feature picture at the Howard this week, starring Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky, is said to be one of the outstanding achievements of this pair, the screen's most fascinating lovers. A Short's Public stage show, “Ice and Frolics,” is said to be considerably above the average. Brown and Bailey have made a decided hit with their dance act, as has little Dorothy Johnson, saxophonist, held over from the “Kiddie Show” of last week.

Forsyth.

Atlanta theatergoers will have their last opportunity today to see “Loose Ankles” which is the premier presentation of the new Forsyth play. The picture is a tremendous success with that vehicle this week. “Loose Ankles” is a rollicking farce of three dancing boys and a girl—and the boy, Helene Dumas, personable leading lady of the new company, is destined to be one of the most popular stock stars ever seen locally. Walter Reagan, leading man, is responsible for a great portion of the laughs in this week's show. The Forsyth players next week will present “What Anne Brought Home,” a tale of domestic trials and which is incidentally spiced with some clever comedy.

Ponce de Leon.

Jackie Coogan, juvenile star of the cinema is seen for today only at the Ponce de Leon theater in “Johnny Get Your Hair Cut.” The famous Coogan bob was lopped off in this picture, and it was such an event that executives of the picture house converted into screen form. “Johnny Get Your Hair Cut” is your last opportunity to see Jackie as he appeared

Klein Predicts Great Industrial Future for Dixie

Memphis, Tenn., October 14.—(United News.)—A thriving industrial future for the south was predicted in an address to the chamber of commerce here by Dr. Julius Klein, director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the United States department of commerce.

Klein said that agriculture is no longer the dominant economic activity of the south. He announced that his department is seeking funds for a general commercial survey of the Gulf southwest area states.

Fundamental Change.
 “In the whole commercial attitude of the south there has been clearly discernible, for many years, a fundamental change—a change of a most praiseworthy character, which has awakened keen gratification in the minds of all students of the economic position of the nation,” Dr. Klein said. “The south has come to realize that unwisdom of too exclusive concentration on a comparative few lines of putting its eggs in too few baskets. In consequence of this, it has branched out, industrially, in many meritable directions. It has developed new interests. Its activities have ‘ramified.’ All sorts of splendidly successful productive efforts have sprung up. And the results of all this are admirably apparent in the secure and promising economic position of the south today.”

Have Ears to Ground.
 “Not only has an essential diversification been brought about—there are many other forces and qualities contributing today to the advancement of the new south. One perceives a quick responsiveness to new requirements in the economic and commercial world. The business men of the south are intimately in touch with shifting conditions and alive to all tendencies, needs and demands. They ‘have their ears to the ground.’ Possessed of the vigor, adaptability and resourcefulness of youth, the in-

 GEORGIA FULTON COUNTY. THE SUPERIOR COURT OF SAID COUNTY. The petition of J. A. G. RICH and C. HERBERT, all of said State and County, respectively, sheweth:

1. Petitioners desire for themselves, their associates, successors and assigns, to be incorporated for the term of twenty years, with the privilege of renewal at the expiration of that time, under the name and style of
CHESAPEAKE SAND COMPANY
 2. The object of said corporation is peculiar, gain to its stockholders.
 3. The capital stock of said corporation will be Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars, divided into one hundred (100) shares of the par value of one Hundred ($100.00) Dollars each, with the privilege of increasing said capital stock, from time to time, by a majority vote of its stockholders, to any sum not less than Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars.
 4. All of said stock will be subscribed for and paid for in cash.
 5. The particular business proposed to be carried on by said corporation will be that of mining, manufacturing, buying, selling and otherwise disposing of sand, gravel, stone, slag, clay and other aggregates, as well as manufacturing, buying and selling any products into which any one or more of said articles is a part.
 6. Petitioners desire that said corporation shall have the right to take in payment of the capital stock, either money or property, at a fair valuation to be placed on the property by the board of directors of said corporation.
 7. Petitioners desire that said corporation shall have the right to own stock in other corporations, to lease, or otherwise acquire all real estate or personal property, including machinery that may be deemed advantageous in the operation of said business, and to have such other powers and privileges as are granted to similar corporations under the laws of this State.
 8. The principal office and place of business of said corporation shall be located in Fulton County, Georgia, but petitioners desire that said corporation shall have the right to establish branch offices, agencies and places of doing business in other counties in the State of Georgia, as well as in any other states and Territories of the United States.
 9. Petitioners desire that said corporation shall have the right to procure and accept amendments to its charter, including fundamental amendments, by the vote of a two-thirds majority in amount of its outstanding common stock.
 Wherefore, petitioners pray that this petition be filed and published, as required by law, and that they be fully incorporated, as prayed, with all the privileges and powers herein set forth.

INDICTMENT OF HILL IS EXPECTED TODAY

Ottawa, Ill., October 14.—(United News.)—Harry D. Hill may be indicted before the grand jury in connection with Mrs. Hill's death. The most important witness was Peter Huch, gardener, who previously testified that young Hill told him to replace the brick pavement over the shallow grave in which Mrs. Hill was buried in the basement of her home.

Hanson has hinted at hitherto undisclosed evidence in the case and it has been rumored, entirely without confirmation, that another indictment may be asked in addition to that of Hill.

DEVER DEMOCRATS URGE PROHIBITION CHANGE

Denver, Colo., October 14.—(AP)—Denver county democrats today adopted a resolution pledging support of their congressional candidate, to be named later, to a modification of the Volstead act. The vote was 88 to 262 and was taken at the democratic county convention of the first state congressional district.

The resolution called for modification of the law to include “a rational, liberal interpretation of the eighteenth amendment restoring to the people the right to conduct their own domestic affairs and to doctors the right to prescribe liquor in such quantities for medicinal purposes as their training and experience may require.”

Adoption of the resolution virtually eliminated Wayne C. Williams, a prominent candidate, from consideration as a congressional nominee.
